"Circus World" was the theme of the 15th annual statewide Easter Seal Kickoff meeting this past week at the Ohio State University Student Union in Columbus. Jimmy Crum, 1977 Ohio Easter Seal Chairman, served as "ringmaster," assisted by Kenny Anderson, Cincinnati Bengals star quarterback.

Nineteen enthusiastic representatives from Pickaway County were among the 400 volunteers and Easter Seal Children participating. Melissa Elaine Peters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Peters, and Pickaway County's 1977 Easter Seal Child, along with 30 other Easter Seal Children, was present for the event. See Better U.S.-India Relations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and India are seeking a political reconciliation that could mean a reduction in New Delhi's reliance on Russia. India's plans for national elections this month may help the process.

American and Indian political experts here say this process, which began last year, has advanced since President Carter took office. A helpful factor plainly has been Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's decision, announced two days before Carter's inauguration, to hold elections.

Mrs. Gandhi has denied that her decision was influenced by external considerations, but the sources say she could not have been unaware of Carter's campaign emphasis on political and human rights.

India has been under emergency rule since mid-1975. In that time, Mrs. Gandhi's political opponents and critics were jailed, the media censored and the 1976 national ballot put off until at least 1978.

Along with the scheduling of this month's elections, Mrs. Gandhi has freed many of her opponents, who are campaigning against her.

Some American and Indian experts agree their governments seek to mend political fences, but they differ over reasons that prompted Mrs. Gandhi to allow national elections at least a year early.

Some Indian sources say Mrs. Gandhi, influenced by her son, Sanjay, is trying to outflank India's extreme right wing, which has urged warmer U.S. relations and a cooling-off with the Soviets, who supply a lot of India's military and industrial equipment.

Congress Sets Votes On Carter Programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House assassinations committee is pondering James Earl Ray's offer to testify as Congress begins a week promising major votes on President Carter's tax and economic stimulus program.

Assassinations committee members, trying to save the panel, will consider Ray's conditional offer of testimony on the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. But first the panel scheduled discussion today on problems raised when committee chairman Henry Gonzalez, D-Tex., submitted his resignation.

Across the Capitol the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee begins hearings today on President Carter's proposal for a Department of Energy. The bill to abolish the Federal Power Commission, Energy Research and Development Administration and the Federal Energy Administration would place their functions in the new department.

The new department would also pick up energy programs scattered in six other federal agencies.

The Senate also is to vote Wednesday on Carter's controversial nomination of Paul Warnke as director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency and head of the U.S. delegation to strategic arms limitations talks with the Russians.

A House vote on a bill to ban importation of Rhodesian chrome is on the agenda for Thursday. Senate action also is possible on the administration-backed attempt to repeal an existing law permitting U.S.

chrome imports despite a 1971 United Nations trade embargo against the white supremacist Rhodesian regime.

Meanwhile, both the House and Senate were moving toward votes on the President's plan to boost the economy.

The House votes Tuesday on its version of Carter's tax cut and $50 rebate bill and is to vote Friday on a $20.7 billion appropriation for his economic stimulus program, much of that for jobs.

Del. Walter Fauntroy, head of an assassinations subcommittee probing

King's murder, said he wants to call a public session to hear Ray this week, but doubts he can because of the panel's internal problems.

But Ray's new lawyer, Jack Kershaw of Nashville, said in a telephone interview late Sunday night that no one from the committee had contacted him on conditions for Ray's testimony. Kershaw said Ray, serving 99 years in prison for killing King, wants to spell out his contention that he unwittingly became involved in a conspiracy that set him up to take the blame for the assassination.

Quake Toll Rises In Eastern Europe

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — The massive quake that hit Romania could seriously set back this Communist country's efforts to set an independent economic course, diplomats said today. The death toll in Bucharest mounted and the first planeload of U.S. emergency aid was reported on its way.

The official Romanian news agency Agerpres said that in addition to heavy toll in lives and housing, "scores of economic enterprises were damaged, with their productive activity being partially or completely interrupted" in Bucharest.

Romanian officials said 580 persons have been confirmed dead, 508 of them in Bucharest, where Friday's quake collapsed 32 high-rise apartment houses. But rescuers were finding a few survivors in the ruins.

Western diplomats estimated that as many as 4,000 persons may have perished in the capital, and a doctor said the toll may rise above 6,000.

"It was big blocks of apartments that fell, and they were corner buildings," he said. "One apartment building was 10 stories and another 12 stories, and they both fell."

Ambulances and hearses waited as teams of soldiers and civilians rummaged through the debris. Bulldozers and cranes picked away at buildings which had been reduced to piles of rubble.

Diplomats said the destruction of industrial plants and the drain on food stocks could deal Romania's economy a heavy blow. The Bucharest government has taken one of the most independent economic courses in the Soviet bloc, trying to build up its own industry and foreign trade.

Diplomats said the quake could hurt Romania's important exports of meat, cereals and grains, a major source of foreign currency.

Agerpres said that in Bucharest there were "hundreds of dead and thousands of wounded, over 30 blocks of apartments destroyed, hundreds of buildings, houses and socio-cultural establishments seriously damaged, thousands of families victims of the disaster ..."

The agency said other areas of Romania were also "seriously afflicted." Four fifths of the houses in the southern town of Zimnicea collapsed, more than 8,300 houses were damaged or destroyed in Dolj county, and dozens of other towns and cities were similarly battered.

U.S. Embassy sources said Romanian officials had given them and other foreign missions a list of urgently needed supplies, and Western countries were trying to coordinate relief efforts.

Austria was the first to send aid, with a planeload Saturday. Switzerland sent special dogs to help rescue trapped survivors.

Assassinations Panel Ex-Chief Rips "Farce"

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The U.S. House Assassinations Committee is a "put-on job" and a "hideous farce that was never intended to work," says Rep. Henry Gonzalez, who resigned last week as chairman of the panel.

The assassination of President John F. Kennedy will never be re-investigated in a meaningful way "because vast and powerful forces, including the country's most sophisticated crime element, won't stand for it," he said.

"This criminal element is all-pervasive, loaded with nothing but money and in many ways more potent than the government itself," said Gonzalez, who submitted his resignation last week as chairman of the committee. The resignation has not yet been formally accepted.

Other forces against the investigation include "the Kennedy family and heavy business interests in the Dallas-Fort Worth area who don't want all the old JFK muck raked up," he said in an interview published Sunday in the San Antonio Express-News.

He was not immediately available for additional comment.

He criticized the committee's chief counsel, Richard Sprague, as an "unconscionable scoundrel" and added:

"Sprague tried to spend committee money on long-distance phone calls to his Philadelphia law firm and to the home of his girlfriend there. And get this. He actually took a little Acapulco vacation for himself while on the committee payroll."

Sprague, contacted at his home in Philadelphia Sunday, refused to comment on Gonzalez' statements.

Gonzalez predicted the committee will forget about the Kennedy assassination now and go into "a weak, one-legged investigation of the Martin Luther King assassination as a sop to blacks."

Gonzalez's resignation followed a showdown with Sprague during which Gonzalez tried to fire Sprague. His fellow committee members supported the former assistant Philadelphia prosecutor.

Gonzalez said he tried to get support from House Speaker Thomas O'Neill and fellow Texan Majority Leader Jim Wright.

"It was an exercise in futility," he said. "The fix was in."

He said he then realized "at last that the House leadership never had intended for the JFK investigation to fly, and indeed had prefabricated the whole thing for the kids."

Without being specific, Gonzalez said that "powerful forces, including criminal elements" had deliberately put Sprague and himself into the committee on an automatic collision course.

"They never did want the Kennedy assassination conspiracy unmasked," said Gonzalez. "They knew I was an honest, direct man who wouldn't hold still for a transparent phony like Sprague. They were so right. The JFK investigation is over."

5 Days In Mine Ends For Adley

TOWER CITY, Pa. (AP) — Ronald Adley waited five days for rescuers to save him from a flooded coal mine, knowing all the while that two of his buddies lay dead in the same underground chamber.

He had seen them swallowed by a torrent of rushing water.

Adley, a rugged miner who scrambled into an air pocket deep inside the flooded mine, dug the final part of his own escape tunnel on Sunday and walked unaided to freedom. He rested in good health at a nearby hospital.

Five miners remain unaccounted for, and four are known dead.

Drillers sinking a probe hole 430 feet from the top of the mountain had to stop Sunday after reaching the 375-foot mark and case the eight-inch hole to prevent water from filling it.

A television camera and a microphone will be lowered down the shaft to where the missing men are believed to be. Drilling was to resume sometime today.

"I want to get the hell out of here," Adley told rescuers on Sunday as he refused a stretcher and walked about 1,000 feet to a waiting coal car that took him the remaining 4,000 feet to the surface.

The bodies of Ralph Renninger, 40, and Donald Shoffler, 41, were discovered further down the upward slanting shaft where Adley had been trapped since midday Tuesday. Their bodies were removed after Adley was freed.

"Adley told us the other men were there," said one mining official. "Renninger and Shoffler worked in the same crew with Adley. He saw them go down with the water broke."

March 6-12 Is 4-H Week

Pickaway County Commissioners, L. Robert Liston, Donald Strous and Carl Schein, Circleville Mayor Frank Barnhill have declared March 6-12 4-H week in Pickaway County.

This week has special interest this year since this is the 75th anniversary of 4-H in Ohio. Mr. A.B. Graham formed an agricultural boys' and girls' club in Springfield, in 1902. From this group of 20 youth, 4-H has grown to reach 211,000 youth in Ohio. It has expanded across the nation and into 60 different countries around the world.

The first clubs learned how to plant corn, tie knots and work with wood. This has grown into a program where 180 projects are now offered in 4-H. Urban youth have really started coming into the program in great numbers within the past 10 years.

4-H in Pickaway County is a growing and thriving organization. In 1976 2,598 Pickaway County youth were involved in 4-H. The program reached 30 per cent of all potential youth between the third grade and 19 years old.

4-H'ers in Pickaway County attend 4-H camps at Tar Hollow, State Park, participate in the Pickaway County Fair and learn many skills which will help them in their adult lives.

4-H stresses citizenship, leadership, group interaction and project skills. 307 adult leaders in 130 clubs in the county spend time developing our youth. 4-H — 75, alive and still growing in Pickaway County.

Warranty Regulations Help Consumers

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Shoppers trying to figure out what is and is not covered by a product warranty should find it easier these days thanks to new federal regulations.

The rules, which were issued by the Federal Trade Commission and took effect Jan. 1, provide help before and after you buy. They apply to written warranties on all products costing more than $15.

Note: there is no difference between a warranty and a guarantee. Both mean the manufacturer has promised to stand behind his product.

The FTC regulations, developed in accordance with the Magnuson-Ross Warranty Act of 1975, do not require companies to give guarantees.

They also apply only to written warranties, spelling out the form they must take if they are issued. The regulations do not cover implied warranties, which come automatically with virtually every sale and are guaranteed by state law.

Written warranties must be available for shoppers to look at before they buy an item. The warranties must be easy to read and understand — no fine print or complicated legal terms.

Every condition of the warranty must be spelled out, in writing. Assurances by a sales clerk that something is included don't count.

The term "money back guarantee" and similar advertising promises are not covered by the federal warranty law, but usually fall under state legislation. An FTC spokesman says that if a company advertises that you will get your money back, you should be able to get satisfaction — from the business itself or from local courts or government agencies.

There are two basic kinds of written warranties: full and limited. The use of these terms is strictly regulated by the Warranty Act, but the details can be confusing.

A full warranty provides that: A defective product will be fixed free of charge, including removal and reinstallation if necessary. If it can't be fixed, you get a replacement or a refund. The product will be fixed within a reasonable time. (The rules do not spell out what is meant by "reasonable.")

—You will not have to do anything unreasonable to get warranty service. (Again, the rules do not define "unreasonable.") By way of example, the FTC says that shipping a piano to the factory is unreasonable.)

—The warranty is good for anyone who owns the product during the warranty period. (This means you can give an item to someone as a gift and not have to worry.)

A full warranty does not have to cover an entire product. It could, for example, apply only to the picture tube on a TV set. Check to see which parts are included. Products may be covered by two warranties — a full warranty for some parts and a limited one for others.

A limited warranty also provides for repairs and replacements, but it is less complete. A limited warranty may: cover parts, but not labor; require you to return a product to the store for service; cover only the first buyer; and include a charge for handling.

The implied warranty is automatic and does not come under the FTC guidelines.

The most common implied warranty, according to the FTC, is that of "merchantability." This means that the product will do what it's supposed to. A toaster must toast, for example.

Another implied warranty is that of "fitness for a particular purpose." If you rely on the seller's advice that a product is good for a particular use, it must serve the stated purpose. As the FTC puts it, "A seller who suggests a certain sleeping bag for zero-degree weather warrants that the sleeping bag will be suitable for zero degrees."

There are several steps to take if you have a problem.

1. Make sure you have contacted the right person. If the warranty is issued by a manufacturer, it may not help to go back to the store where you bought a product. Be specific about your problem and what you think you are owed.

2. Contact a local consumer (Continued on Page 12)

Assembly Hears Important Items

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bills affecting Ohioans' everyday lives are starting to move in the legislature.

Hearings get under way this week on such subjects as aerosol cans, breach of promise to marry, wage garnishment, motorcycle education in the schools, and theft of cable television services, and runaway dogs.

These and other close-to-home measures may not pass, but they at least get lawmakers involved while leaders grapple with things like the state's two-year budget and energy crunch.

Often, a bill is introduced to represent complaints or demands of the legislators' constituents. However, their progression to the hearing stage usually means they have at least some chance of passage.

Coming up for hearing Tuesday in the House Energy and Environment Committee is a measure that would outlaw aerosol cans containing fluorocarbons.

Widely used for such things as hair spray, furniture polish, and deodorants, the propelling fluorocarbons assertedly threaten the atmosphere's ozone layer which protects life from the sun's ultraviolet rays, and thus skin cancer.

Oregon became the first state to ban the cans last week, although many scientists disagree as to whether the fluorocarbons do what has been claimed.

Tuesday, the House Judiciary Committee will consider a measure that abolishes civil liability for breach of promise to marry. Rep. Virginia Aveni, D-17 Cleveland, maintains such contracts are unenforceable and only litter the statutes.

Her bill has the endorsement of the Ohio State Bar Association.

Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, is asking the House Economic Affairs and Federal Relations Committee on Wednesday to consider his proposal to change garnishment laws.

Among other things, his bill prohibits a garnishment to be entered with an employer against an employee in excess of the employee's disposable earnings in one pay period.

Before the House Education Committee Tuesday night is a bill to require schools offering driver education to also provide training in the operation of motorcycles. The same committee will consider a week later a proposal requiring periods of meditation in public schools as an alternative to court-banned prayer.

Rep. Michael H. Oxley, R-82 Cin-

day, gets his first hearing in the House Insurance, Utilities, and Financial Institutions Committee on Tuesday on his measure outlawing tap-ins to cable television facilities, to obtain free cable service. Cablevision companies around the state report such tap-ins as an increasing problem.

Dogs running at large off the owner's property, although properly registered, could be impounded under a bill Rep. Pete Crossland, D-42 Akron, to be aired Thursday by the House Transportation and Urban Affairs Committee.

Other bills up for hearings this week, in what may be called the nonessential category, are those that permit left turns on red from one-way streets, require the state to notify drivers before their license expires, expand organizations which can run bingo games, and require the offering of drugs by their generic classifications as well as by brand name.

High Court Upholds Strip Mine Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today let stand a decision by Kentucky's highest court that landowners who sell the mineral rights of their land to others can prohibit surface or strip mining of coal.

The justices turned down an appeal by a Kentucky bank and two coal companies that such a ban deprived them of their property rights since the mineral deeds entitled holders to "all coal" under 84 acres of Muhlenberg County land.

There are two basic ways of mining coal — the deep method in which shafts are dug into a coal seam and miners work underground to remove the coal, and stripping or surface mining in which machinery separates the coal from other materials on or near the surface of the land.

Surface mining has been a source of controversy in mining areas for years. Many environmentalists condemn it for the ecological damage it causes, charging that such scarred land cannot be reclaimed.

Four families, owners of the Muhlenberg County land, filed suit to halt strip mining operations on their land. Mineral rights for the land had been sold under three separate transactions in 1906.

A state trial court ruled that strip mining was unknown and not practiced when the mineral deeds were sold so it could not lawfully be carried out by holders of those deeds against the landowners' wishes.

The Commerce Union Bank, owner of the mineral rights, the Island Creek Coal Co., who had leased the mineral rights from the bank, and the Badgett Strip Mining Corp., which had subleased from Island Creek rights to coal within 125 feet of the land's surface, appealed to the Kentucky Supreme Court.

The state supreme court upheld the trial court's findings.

In seeking Supreme Court review, the bank and two coal companies argued that strip mining was known of and practiced in Muhlenberg County as early as 1820, on the Green River.

They said banning strip mining on the contested land would mean a loss of 23 million tons of coal that cannot be removed by the deep mining method.

"At a time when public policy demands that the nation's natural resources not be wasted, the Supreme Court of Kentucky has prohibited the safest and most economical and efficient method of recovering the nation's coal reserves," the bank and coal companies said.

Owners of the land who successfully sought the strip mining ban are James and Rosa Lee Kinkade, Lonnie Ray Harper, Elza and Martha Gray, and Robert and Elizabeth Armstrong.

Toll-Free Calls Help Veterans

If you have a question concerning veterans benefits, chances are you can use a toll-free telephone line to the Veterans Administration.

VA maintains more than 950 toll-free telephone lines across the country for just that purpose, according to L. M. Merritt, director of the Cleveland VA Regional Office.

The telephone network is available to an estimated 90 per cent of the country's 29.7 million veterans and the telephone numbers can usually be found in the "U.S. Government" section of local telephone books under "Veterans Administration — Benefits Information and Assistance."

In cases where a "U.S. Government" listing is not contained in the local directory, telephone operators can supply the number, Merritt noted.

The toll-free service is aimed primarily at veterans or their dependents who live some distance from a VA office and therefore find it difficult to make a personal visit. Local telephone service is, of course, available to veterans who live in communities having VA offices.

The toll-free service has proved extremely popular, and the director said agency counselors answered 18.3 million telephone inquiries nationwide in 1976.

Because the service is so popular, he said, veterans should have at hand as much VA-related information about themselves as possible when making a call.

VA counselors can provide faster service when the veteran's VA claim number, military serial number or Social Security number is provided.

The VA toll-free network now serves 34 states, the director added. Eleven other states have partial toll-free service between population centers and VA regional offices.

The latter includes Alaska where an automatic collect call system known as "Zenith" provides veterans in 60 widely scattered communities with no-cost telephone service to VA offices in Juneau and Anchorage.

Mileage Is Deductible

Taxpayers who drive their automobiles for business, moving, charitable and medical purposes may be able to deduct such expenses on their tax returns, the Internal Revenue Service said.

Taxpayers who keep records of actual costs may claim operating expenses and fixed expenses, such as depreciation and insurance for business use of their automobile. For deductible nonbusiness uses, only operating expenses may be claimed.

Instead of claiming actual expenses, taxpayers may use an optional mileage allowance method. Taxpayers can deduct 15 cents per mile for the first 15,000 and 10 cents per mile for each additional mile when their automobile is used for business purposes. Individuals who use their automobile for charitable, medical, or moving expenses are allowed 7 cents per mile under tax guidelines. In all instances, parking and toll fees may be claimed in addition to the mileage rate.

These deductions can be made only if the taxpayer was not reimbursed for the expenses by his or her employer. If the employer's reimbursement exceeds the employee's actual expenses, the amount of the excess must be shown as gross income, the IRS said.

For more details concerning business expenses, the free IRS Publication 463, "Travel, Entertainment and Gift Expenses," is available from local IRS offices. Publications outlining moving, charitable and medical deductions are also available free from the IRS. These publications can be ordered by using the hand order blank included in the tax package instructions.

Amin Hopes To Visit U.S. This Year

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — President Idi Amin says he wants to improve relations between Uganda and the United States and hopes to visit New York later this year.

"President Carter one day will be one of my best friends," Amin said Sunday in an interview with The Associated Press, CBS and NBC.

"I like Carter as a person, but I don't think he understands me or even Africa. He doesn't know African policy and only follows reports from exiles. Amin said he hopes to visit United Nations headquarters in New York this year. If Washington bars him from the United States, he added, other nations would demand that the headquarters of the world body be moved.

He also said he plans to attend the Commonwealth Conference in London in June despite demands in Britain that he be barred from that country because of alleged violations of human rights in Uganda.

Amin denied charges by refugees and foreign churchmen that he murdered Anglican Archbishop Janani Lumum and two cabinet ministers accused with him of plotting against Amin. He insisted that they died in an automobile wreck shortly after their arrest Feb. 16. He also denied refugees' reports that his army is exterminating members of the Christian Acholi and Langi tribes.

A Page Of Opinion

Dam Battle Brewing

In failing to specify in detail its objections to the 19 water reclamation and dam projects Congress has been asked to cancel, the Carter administration may have made a tactical error which can only aggravate its dealings with Congress over the matter.

The 19 projects, it has pointedly mentioned, are only a few of the more than 300 water projects pending. That is true, but the list of curtailments contains many of the larger ones. Further, many on the list are located in states which have been suffering from a prolonged drought. From that standpoint alone, the timing of the proposal as the first major budget reduction effort of the administration could not have been worse. The governors of the drought stricken states already have made their objections known. Members of Congress from those states are certain to contest the action heatedly when the issue comes up for consideration.

Traditionally, as the large number now pending would indicate, water resource projects are favorites of pork barrel legislators. Many of them are legitimate, nonetheless, from both an economic and conservation standpoint.

What will seem most strange to the affected states where drought conditions have brought hardship is that the $289 million to be saved by canceling these water projects fades into insignificance when compared with the $14 billion in further budget deficits the Carter administration has added to the $44 billion deficit inherited from the Ford administration.

Women And Church

By JIM BISHOP

The Vatican has said that women will not be ordained as priests. This has created a ripple of protest through the Catholic laity. As a retired altar boy, I must confess that I miss the point.

The church has always been male-oriented. Two persons of the Holy Trinity are male: "In the name of the Father, the Son . . . The Holy Spirit is known to have appeared in the form of a dove, which would imply a doubt of gender."

On the other hand, the Trinity, as taught, is that the three persons are one. The mystery is beyond mortal understanding, but it would be even more difficult to comprehend that two are male and one is female.

I have spent considerable years of my life in Jerusalem and Nazareth and elsewhere researching two books. One was called "The Day Christ Was Born." The other was "The Day Christ Died." The work does not make me an authority — just a student.

The ministry of Jesus, I am convinced, encompassed a little less than three years. As the Son of God He trod the hills of Judea preaching to His chosen people, the Jews. The crowds gathered around Him to question His doctrines, to adore Him, to revile Him as a Faker, were mostly male.

Female Jews, under the ancient laws, were too modest to be seen in street gatherings. They were not permitted to sit on the same floor with males in synagogues.

He chose 12 apostles — all men. No one pretends to understand why the inner group was not composed of six men and six women. History teaches that all of them were male and all fairly average men.

The best preacher of all, the one who might have been the 13th apostle, didn't meet Jesus. He was a man, Paul. A study of the Bible suggests that Jesus set women apart from the rest of mankind; that they were held in a special reverential position.

When He preached, He took his mother with Him. It was at her behest that He performed his first miracle — the changing of water into wine. Nor would he countenance leaving her alone when He died. She was given in John's care: "Mother, behold thy son; son behold thy mother."

According to the gospels, he wept but once. When Mary and Martha told Him that His friend Lazarus was dead, they were in tears. "Jesus wept." No man made Him weep.

A Jewish woman, taken in adultery, was about to be stoned to death. There was no doubt about her guilt. The punishment was clear in the Old Testament. And yet, moved to pity because it was a woman, He acknowledged the justice of the punishment and murmured: "Ye who are without sin cast the first stone."

All the way, it seems to me, Jesus was following the ancient Hebrew law of setting women apart from the somber responsibilities of the men. Men were not ordained to perform the miracle of birth — women were.

The Vatican interprets the law, as the ancient Sanhedrin did. Paul VI approved a document which states that women will not be ordained as priests. And yet, inside the Vatican, of 3,000 employees, 250 are women.

They hold responsible posts. The highest rank at the present is held by Sister Thaddea Kelly of San Francisco. She is an "ufficiale maggaore," a senior official. She deals with the rules of religious and missionary communities. There are highly placed laity, too.

One such woman, Marjorie Weeke of Whittier, California, holds the rank of "adetto" — attache or officer — on the pontifical commission for social communications. She thinks "male chauvinism has disappeared" since Vatican Council II. Her phrasing, to be charitable, is unfortunate.

And yet there is one little jot of discrimination left in the Vatican. One you never hear about.

The Holy See pays equal pay to women for equal work. However, it pays nuns less than other women. The reason is that nuns are not eligible to receive family bonuses. Also they are given free room and board.

In the main, the Catholic Church seems to exalt women. For 20 centuries, its backbone has been women. It is they who do the work, raise the funds, and send their men off to church.

There is no greater ministry . . .

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — While warnings abound about prices and interest rates that are said to be disastrously high, a housing boom seems to be in the making.

To some extent the pace of activity that already exists seems to defy the forecasts of some analysts, and perhaps demonstrates again that necessity somehow overcomes all obstacles, including price.

By the end of this year the median price paid for a single-family home is expected to be $50,000, based on field reports from the National Association of Realtors. Interest rates remain rather high, between 8.5 and 9 per cent.

Nevertheless, some housing economists are now raising their estimates for starts this year, with some even suggesting there might be more than 2 million, compared with 1.537 million in 1976.

If that level is reached, it will be the first time since 1973, when 2,045,000 starts were registered, that the 2 million-figure has been exceeded.

Projections by the realtors and by the U.S. League of Savings Association, the biggest mortgage lenders, fall just short of that mark. The realtors expect 1.8 million starts, the league 1.9 million.

These projections remain unchanged despite a plunge in the figures for January, when icy and stormy weather prevented much activity over the eastern one-half or two-thirds of the country.

While the projected strength itself is noteworthy, some of the breakdown is even more surprising. Kenneth Thygeson and Dennis Jacobe, economists with the league, expect single-family units to surpass 1972's record of 1.3 million.

In view of the warnings about high prices and mortgage rates, this expectation is especially interesting. Single-family units, as opposed to multi-family rental housing, indicate willingness by individuals to spend.

Again, despite encouragement by some analysts to build houses smaller in order to minimize cost increases, official government figures indicate that houses built in recent years have been somewhat larger than before.

Among the reasons said to be making the heightened activity possible are the availability of money and the low down payments required.

The median down payment for all new homes sold in 1975 was just 10.2 per cent, with more than one out of every four buyers putting down less than 5 per cent. Four per cent of sales were for cash.

The long-term outlook for housing also is good, at least in the view of the realtors. For the remainder of this decade, they say, the demographic factors underlying the market will be exceptionally strong.

But Thygeson and Jacobe warn that the "boom," a term they use, might evaporate if the country returns to double-digit inflation which, they say, could reappear as early as the first quarter of next year.

The weakness in the outlook, they say, is the "inevitable energy crunch" that could restrict the supply of goods and services, and consequently force up prices.

Owens-Illinois Inc. Sets Expansion

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Owens-Illinois Inc. expects about $1 billion of capital improvements in the next five to seven years, compared with $762.2 million in the five-year period ended last year, Chairman Edwin D. Dodd said in the annual report.

Dodd said the increase would be needed to meet the company's previously announced objective to "double sales and earnings in that period."

This year, the diversified maker of packaging products expects to spend more than $200 million, up 14 per cent from the $175.5 million outlay for capital products last year.

If the value of sunlight were figured at the same rate as artificial light — eight cents per kilowatt hour — New Yorkers would have to pay 400,000,000 dollars a day for the light they now get for free.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A surgeon wanted to operate on my wife because he thought she had appendicitis. I refused to allow it because I had heard that knife-happy surgeons rush in to operate, especially on the appendix. As it turned out, she got well. I am furious with both my family doctor and the surgeon because they were in such a hurry to operate.

Mr. A. V., Pa.

Dear Mr. V.: The real object of your fury should be yourself. Your wife, particularly, should be "furious" because you, without any medical judgment, tampered with her life.

By your refusal to permit surgery against the advice of your doctors, you took on the total responsibility for her illness and, possibly, for her life.

You gambled her life against your misunderstanding of good medical practice. It was a long shot and, fortunately, you won. But the odds were strongly against you. The diagnosis of acute appendicitis is one of the most difficult ones that presents itself to the surgeon. The case history, the tenderness over the right lower segment of the abdomen, the presence of fever, the study of the blood and the rigidity of the abdominal muscles are all significant to the surgeon.

Problems in the small intestine may simulate acute appendicitis. Children with ordinary sore throats may have swollen glands in the neck and associated with this, swollen glands around the small intestine which may give symptoms of appendicitis.

This should give you some idea of the difficulty of making a diagnosis of appendicitis. It is for this reason that surgery very often turns out to be the safest and most conservative approach, when there is a suspicion of appendicitis.

The safety of modern anesthesia, coupled with refined surgical techniques, frequently makes "looking in" the safest and wisest approach to such a problem.

You might have asked your doctor for a second opinion. His judgment would have been a far greater contribution to your wife's recovery than your "medical" opinion.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH . . .

The kitchen toaster can be dangerous. If children prod the bread with a metal fork while the current is on.

Ohio Senate Report

By OAKLEY C. COLLINS
17th District Senator

The Senate Ways and Means Committee last week approved legislation (SB99) extending until May 1 the penalty deadline for persons who don't pay their property taxes on time. Property owners are normally charged a 10 per cent penalty for paying their property taxes late.

To have any effect this year, the bill must be acted on quickly as it must still be approved by the full Senate and go through committee hearings and a floor vote in the House.

The Senate Ways and Means Committee also approved a proposed constitutional amendment establishing a flexible debt limit for the state. SJR 3 would authorize the legislature to issue notes backed by the state's full faith and credit up to a certain percentage of the state's income in that year.

Senator Oakley C. Collins is a co-sponsor of a "Golden Age Package" of benefits for Ohio's 1,066,000 senior citizens. The legislation includes:

A bill increasing from $10,000 to $15,000 the amount of income an elderly person may earn and still claim the homestead exemption for tax purposes.

A resolution memorializing Congress to repeal the $2.30 per hour minimum wage law as it applies to older Americans.

A bill allowing the Ohio Commission on Aging to promote establishment of non-profit, multi-purpose senior citizens centers.

A bill requiring appointment of at least one senior citizen to each of 13 state boards and commissions that make decisions affecting seniors.

A bill giving lawyers an income tax deduction for free legal services to persons 62 years of age or older who qualify for the homestead exemption.

The House last week voted to raise the state guarantee of student loans made by private lenders to 100 per cent from the present 90 per cent.

HB 152 also permits the Ohio Student Loan Commission (OSLC) to guarantee loans to non-resident students and provides that the federal government will, within reasonable limits, assure the state 100 per cent reimbursement on defaulted loans the state must pay.

The bill would make about $20 million more in loans available to students attending state-supported universities. During the last fiscal year, defaulted loans under OSLC program amounted to $1.3 million, or 4.2 per cent of the $30.9 million guaranteed. Defaults are paid off through loan charges to students who borrow money through the program and from reserve funds the OSLC invests.

HB 152 also increases from $10,000 to $15,000 the amount graduate students can borrow from OSLC at 7 per cent interest. The $7,500 limit on undergraduate loans would remain unchanged.

Crashes Kill 3 Persons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two pedestrians—one a victim of a hit-skip driver—accounted for two of Ohio's three traffic deaths over the weekend.

A Holgate man was killed early Sunday when he was struck by a vehicle near Defiance. The Highway Patrol was seeking the driver of the vehicle. Ohio's first fatality of the weekend was a 34-year-old pedestrian hit by a truck near Orrville Saturday morning.

The third victim was killed in a two-car accident Sunday.

The patrol keeps its count of weekend traffic deaths from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday.

The dead:

SUNDAY
NEW PHILADELPHIA — John Troyer, 19, Sugar Creek, in a two-car accident on Ohio 39 in Tuscarawas County.

DEFIANCE — Dennis Mack, 21, Holgate, in a hit-run accident on U.S. 24 about three miles west of Defiance.

SATURDAY
ORRVILLE — Lawrence E. Weirick, 34, Ashland, pedestrian struck by a truck on Route 57 in Wayne County.

Public Hearings On Disabled Slated

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Public hearings on protection and advocacy services for the developmentally disabled will be held in Columbus, Cleveland and Cincinnati next week.

The Cleveland session will be held Tuesday at the Marriott Inn with the Columbus hearing to be held the following day at the Imperial House North. In Cincinnati, the hearing will be held Thursday at Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge.

The hearings are part of the development of a statewide plan for protection and advocacy services, required by recent federal legislation. The plan will be submitted to Gov. James A. Rhodes.

E. Miller Hundley Retires From County Schools Post

The Pickaway County Board of Education announced the retirement of E. Miller Hundley as intermediate supervisor effective July 31.

The board passed a resolution commending Hundley for his years of service in the Pickaway County School System. He served as a teacher and assistant principal in the Whitehall School System and as a teacher in the Montebello Public Schools, California and as teacher-principal in the Williamsport Elementary School prior to being employed by the county board as intermediate supervisor of instruction. He and his wife, Pauline, reside at 355 Markley Drive.

Howard Weaver, guidance director for Teays Valley High School in the Teays Valley Local School District, was named as Hundley's replacement. Weaver has an AB and MA degree from Ohio State University and has done post-graduate work in guidance, curriculum development, and supervision. His professional experience includes employment as a teacher in the Ross County Schools, guidance counselor in the Chillicothe City Schools and Westfall Local School District.

The last nine years he has served as guidance counselor and director of guidance service for the Teays Valley Local Schools. He is a member of the Teays Valley Classroom Teachers Assn., Central Ohio Teachers Assn., OEA, NEA, Ohio School Counselors Assn., and the American School Counselors Assn. In addition to his duties as intermediate supervisor of instruction, he will coordinate the guidance and county wide testing programs for the county schools.

Weaver and his wife, Helen, are the parents of three children, Randy Teets in the U.S. Marine Corps, Barry, a sophomore at Logan Elm High School, and Lavona, a seventh grader at McDowell Exchange School. They reside at 7270 S.R. 188, Circleville. Weaver will assume his new duties August 1.

In other action, the board approved professional leave for Mrs. Marjorie Evans to attend the International Reading Association Convention in Miami May 1-7.

County Superintendent Edward Martin discussed with the board the implications of Senate Bill 51 pertaining to the 15 days of authorized absence from school because of the energy crisis as it pertains to non-teaching personnel in the school districts.

E. MILLER HUNDLEY

Martin informed the board that Senator Oakley Collins and Representative Myrl Shoemaker indicated they will introduce a new bill including weather as part of the 15 days energy crisis bill.

Everett Beers, board member, and Superintendent Martin reported to the board on their attendance at the AASA Convention Feb. 24 through March 1 in Las Vegas.

The board discussed the contact made by the Franklin County Board of Education to the county superintendent in regard to the transfer of the Groveport-Madison Local School District to the Pickaway County School System. The county board of education is legally responsible for the transfer of territory and the consolidation of local schools in the county system. However, the board did not take any action in regard to the inquiry made by the Franklin County Board since it was not a formal resolution requesting that territory in the Franklin County School System be transferred to the Pickaway County System.

The county superintendent informed the board that he will be meeting with the local superintendents in the near future to discuss staff needs and the recommendation of teachers for employment for the next school year.

Columbus Schools Reopening

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Thousands of Columbus school pupils left behind their improvised schoolhouses and ended their education-by-newspaper today to return to regular classrooms for the first time in more than one month.

Since Feb. 4, 140 of the 175 schools in Ohio's second largest city have been closed down for lack of natural gas. The shutdown affected 96,000 pupils. The other 35 used alternate fuels and were open daily for once-a-week classes by bused-in students.

But a major effort, called "School Without Schools," continued a semblance of education for the pupils.

Both daily newspapers offered pages of educational information. The three local commercial television stations and one commercial radio station blocked out hours for classrooms on the air. Local educational radio expanded its programming.

And students met outside classrooms. Some of the meetings were in private homes. Others were in more unlikely places—beer parlors, pizza cafes, billiard halls and corporate board rooms. Students saw business and industrial functions not normally open to them through tours of foundries, glass factories, banks and insurance offices.

PICKAWAY GRANGE YOUTH

The Pickaway County Grange Youth attended worship services at the Five Points United Methodist Church yesterday morning and then held the monthly business meeting in the under-croft followed by a carry-in dinner.

Host for the meeting was Harold Furniss and family who provided beverages for the dinner.

During the business session the group completed plans for the annual banquet to be held March 26th in Circleville. Paul Dunkle is in charge of reservations.

The youth group voted to prepare displays for the Pickaway County Fair and for the Ohio State Fair with Mark Wolfe in charge of the assembly and building.

In April, the youth will attend the Summit County Youth Conference near Akron, and they will also begin the traveling program to local granges in Pickaway County.

Recognition was given to the drill team which placed second in district competition; to Bob Lands for fourth place in the state baking contest and to Neal Wolfe who received first place in the game competition for young marrieds.

Minster Recalls Auto Tragedy

MINSTER, Ohio (AP) — "How do you reconcile something like this," asked Virgil Moorman, reflecting on a backroad accident a year ago today that killed eight teenagers and scarred many lives in this western Ohio farming community.

He answered his own question: "I don't know."

"You never forget. You sort of roll with the grief."

A 15-year-old daughter, Rebecca, was among the eight killed when a car ran a rural stop sign and struck a stopped caravan of high school students enroute to a church social. Another three Minster teenagers were killed in a traffic accident later in the year.

The 11 graves are clustered together in a new section of St. Augustine's cemetery, two rows of four, one row of two and a single grave far behind.

No memorial service was planned for the occasion at the high school where all were students, nor at St. Augustine's Roman Catholic Church where all were members.

"To avoid dredging up old feelings of remorse, the school does not wish to have any...commemorative program," said Stanley Shopa, high school principal.

"The community has had so many reminders," said a spokesman at St. Augustine's Church. "The accident, the trial that followed, the other accident that killed three more boys. It is best that all be forgotten."

"I'm reconciled because I know I have to live with it," said Jean Kemper, whose 17-year-old son Mike was a victim.

"When you lose three per cent of the high school students in one year it gets you to thinking," said police Chief William Poeppelman, 51. "I know all those families. I like young people and this has been the toughest year ever for me..."

"This thing has dragged out so long. I think the people would like to play it down."

None who talked expressed ill will for John Kremer, 22, driver of the car which ran struck the caravan of 39 teenagers who had stopped to discuss whether to drive through a community with a rival basketball team. He pleaded no contest to one count of vehicular homicide, was fined $300 and had his driver's license suspended for one year.

"We've learned a lot," said Irene Sommer, whose youngest son, Kenneth, 14, was among the victims. "You learn that people around you really care. I'm wiser now, and richer for it. There is more understanding."

Her second youngest son, Fred Sommer, Jr., 18, "is now wiser and has matured a lot." Neither he nor his father will talk of the accident.

"Sometimes you wish you could tear out a part of life and put something else in but you have to live with it," Mrs. Sommer said.

News Of Interest To Women

The Circleville Herald, Monday March 7, 1977

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Wants Women Workers To Stay Ashore

DEAR ABBY: My husband works for an oil company, offshore seven days and onshore seven days. I'm just a housewife who can't even get to her own husband when he's working offshore, but listen to this, Abby. There are seven females who are now working side by side with the men on that rig, thanks to the government and Women's Lib!

Those women also eat and sleep under the same roof as the men. My husband says his company is bound by law to hire women, and there's nothing he can do about it.

There are plenty of jobs for decent women on land, so why would a decent woman want to work on an oil rig with a bunch of men? They say these women demanded equal rights. Where the hell are MY rights?

My husband says I don't have to worry that no funny business is going on and the men treat the women just like they were guys. Do you really buy that, Abby?

DEAR M.B.: Yes, I buy it. And furthermore, any woman who works alongside a man on an oil rig is earning her bread the hard way. If she wants to cash in on her femininity, I can think of several jobs she could have chosen.

DEAR ABBY: My son got married, and a week later he came back home because he learned that the woman he married prefers women to men. Her lesbian friend moved in the day my son moved out.

The problem is what to do with the wedding gifts. Some say to return them, others say that if the wedding ceremony has been performed and the couple has lived together, even if only for a few days, the gifts don't have to be returned.

My son wants to do the right thing, but he's not sure what that is. Also, what should he tell people?

STUMPED
DEAR STUMPED: Your son should return the gifts that came from his friends and family. And no explanation is in order.

DEAR ABBY: That 18-year-old girl who wanted to know how to refuse a date with a 55-year-old man without hurting his feelings reminded me of something that happened to me when I was 45 and carrying mail.

Every morning I exchanged pleasant greetings with a pretty young secretary to whom I delivered office mail. (She looked about 20.)

One day she said, "Know what? The people in this office say I have a crush on you, but that's ridiculous, because you're too old for me."

I said nothing, but started to wrack my brain for a cute comeback to her rather startling pronouncement. The next morning I had the answer.

Handing her the mail, I said, "Say, I've decided that YOU'RE too old for me."

"Too old for you?" she said. "And how did you figure that out?"

"Well, if you were 3 or 4 years old," I replied, "I could hold you on my lap, put my arms around you, kiss you, and no one would think a thing about it—not even my wife. So you see, you're just too old for me."

Hustler Motion Set

CINCINNATI (AP) — Judge William J. Morrissey will hear a motion Wednesday to consider charges by attorneys for Hustler magazine publisher Larry Flynt that a jury was compelled to reach a verdict in his trial.

Flynt's lawyers asked Thursday that the Hamilton County Common Pleas Court order a formal investigation of communications between Morrissey and the jury during Flynt's trial last month.

Attorneys Herald P. Fahringer and Paul J. Cambria Jr. charged Morrissey may have compelled the jury to reach a verdict.

They asked that details of the investigation and of all communications between judge and jury be included in the trial record.

On Feb. 8, after more than 18 hours of deliberation, the jury convicted Flynt of pandering obscenity and engaging in organized crime.

Flynt was sentenced to seven-to-25 years in jail and fines totaling $11,000. Hustler Inc. was also fined $11,000.

Antennas Important To CBers

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you think the $89 you spent on your Citizens Band radio is all you'll spend on your new hobby, you may be in for a shock. Many find CBing can be expensive.

After becoming familiar with their first mobile unit and car antenna, many CBers start looking for accessories such as power mikes and SWR meters.

Then comes a second or even a third radio, including one that can be used for sideband transmission.

But if you want to set up a base station in your home to "ratchet jaw" during your spare time, don't try cutting costs when buying your new antenna. It's possibly the most important piece of equipment you can buy.

CB radios do not differ much in transmitting power since they are limited by the Federal Communications Commission to no more than four watts of power. The price differences usually are due to various extras, improved construction, better adjacent channel rejection and sideband capability.

Even the inexpensive mobile radio can be transformed into a base unit simply by attaching it to a $25 regulated power supply plugged into any household electrical outlet.

But the antenna, together with its location, often determines just how far a CB signal will get out.

There are two basic types of antennas.

The omnidirectional antennas — which usually come in one-fourth, one-half and five-eighths wave lengths — send radio signals equidistantly in all directions. The five-eighths wave antenna usually works best, but will cost more.

For even greater distance, and to eliminate some unwanted chatter, some CBers install even more expensive directional beam antennas. These beam the radio signal farther in a particular direction but lose signal strength coming from the sides and the rear of the antenna. Thus you might be able to talk to a CBer 25 miles away in the direction of the beam, but not hear another calling you five miles away on the side of the antenna.

A lot of CBers have both, the "omni" to monitor incoming calls and to talk locally and the beam to make long-distance calls.

Whatever antenna you erect, be sure to follow exactly the manufacturer's instructions. A quarter-inch difference in measurements can greatly affect your transmission.

Your base antenna can be installed on top of your house, on a steel pipe anchored to the side of your house, a tower or even on top of a nearby tree. The higher you are able to place it, within FCC constraints, the better.

FCC regulations require that no part of a directional antenna may be more than 20 feet above the ground, building or tree on which it is mounted. Omnidirectional antennas may be no higher than 60 feet above ground, or 20 feet above the building or tree on which it is mounted.

Ohio Demos Proceed Slowly With Vetoed Legislation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Majority Democrats are proceeding slowly but surely with pet bills Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes vetoed before Democrats became veto proof against him early this year.

One of the bills could appear on the House floor Wednesday, another is at the committee hearing stage, and a third and biggest of all—collective bargaining for public employees—is on the drawing board.

House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, and Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, don't want to go too fast. Riffe is contemplating a bid for the governorship next year, and Ocasek, an education professor, is being prodded along the same lines by friends in the education lobby.

Legislative ramrodding could hurt such ambitions, especially if it gave the appearance of political reprisal. Additionally, the Democrats will be in power for 22 more months at least—plenty of time to move judiciously, they point out.

Riffe's office said late last week that the House may vote Wednesday on a bill repealing the mechanics lien law as it now applies to private one-unit and duplex homeowners.

That statute, written initially to guarantee payments to contractors, has been used in courts on occasion in such a way as to force a homeowner to pay twice for the same construction or repair job.

Riddled with amendments and loopholes by the time it reached Rhodes' desk earlier, he applied his veto with an assertion that it generally made a bigger mess of the problem than the present law, perhaps correctly so.

This time, the chief sponsor, Rep. John D. Thompson Jr., D-15 Cleveland, has kept his bill relatively simple with language saying, with limited exceptions, that the mechanics lien law doesn't exist for one and two-family dwellings.

Otherwise, youthful Rep. Sherrod Brown, D-61 Mansfield, is progressing in committee hearings with his measure prohibiting supermarkets from stopping to stamp prices on individual items.

Rhodes rejected that proposal on grounds it would keep supermarkets from availing themselves of cost saving computerization, with the savings ostensibly putting at least one check on rising food prices.

qadd book 956 ohio demos mon march 7 Brown, a Yale-educated liberal, doesn't buy the retailers' claims and insists that putting prices on store shelves, as they propose, is an unreliable alternative. Fuel Conversion Plans Approved

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio State University Board of Trustees has approved plans for completion of an alternate fuel conversion program by next winter.

By then all of the university's main and regional campus boiler facilities will be able to use either natural gas or fuel oil for heating.

Estimated cost of the final phase of the project is $672,700.

counter, he maintains.

Senate Finance Chairman Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, said he will introduce soon his vetoed bill to establish bargaining procedures for Ohio's more than 500,000 state and local public employees, including a limited right to strike.

Rhodes had the private support of some Democrats in vetoing that proposal when he said it threatened to bankrupt state and local governments and leave communities without vital services during strikes.

VFW To Discuss Legislative Goals For 1977

The 1977 legislative goals of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be discussed March 13 at a meeting of the VFW's District Eleven at Post 3331, 217 N. Court St. Eugene Hill is post commander.

The Circleville post will host representatives from Union, Delaware, Licking, Madison, Franklin, Fairfield, Fayette, Pickaway and Hocking Counties, representing nearly 10,000 overseas veterans. Carl Bair, Baltimore, is district commander.

Bair says the VFW seeks increased compensation rates for service-connected disabled veterans, additional pension for World War I veterans, the highest quality medical care in all VA facilities, the preservation and extension of the Veterans Preference Act in Civil Service hiring and an all-out effort by government and the private sector to obtain jobs for veterans of the Vietnam era.

Bair says the VFW also seeks a national defense posture second to none, including construction of the B-1 bomber. Additionally, the VFW wants Congress to draw up a plan for universal military training for all U.S. citizens in a specific age group. The plan would be held in readiness should the present all-volunteer forces experiment prove unworkable.

The state organization of the VFW will be represented at the Circleville meeting by Glen Rohr, Canal Fulton, its judge advocate.

WHY BUY A MATTRESS FOR YOUR BACK IF YOU SLEEP ON YOUR FRONT, TOO?

Beautyrest is the mattress for your whole body

It has individually pocketed coils that react separately, to support whatever part of your body they are under. Beautyrest conforms to how you're built and how you sleep. Ordinary mattresses have springs all wired together, so they can't tell your back from your front. That's why you should sleep on a Beautyrest: when you take a position it supports you, whatever side you're on.

More Food Help Lent By Nations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richer countries are lending more of a helping hand in food production to less-developed nations since the World Food Conference in Rome more than two years ago, an Agriculture Department analyst said today.

Martin Kriesberg of USDA's Economic Research Service said that, despite stepped-up efforts, many poor countries still are having a hard time with trade balance of payments and domestic development.

Even so, he said, there has been "a marked increase in the flow of financial resources" to many poor countries to help with food production. This has totaled nearly $5 billion a year, almost double the aid before the Rome meeting Nov. 5-16, 1974, he said. His remarks were in a weekly issue of "Foreign Agriculture" published by USDA.

RCA Increases Dividends

The Board of Directors of RCA Corporation voted to increase the regular quarterly cash dividend on RCA Common Stock from 25 cents to 30 cents a share. The last increase occurred on February 1, 1968.

In announcing the Board's action, Edgar H. Griffiths, President and Chief Executive Officer, said:

"This 20 per cent increase in the quarterly dividend reflects our current strong earnings rebound. Beyond that, it expresses the confidence we feel in our prospects for 1977 and the years ahead. Our objective, simply stated, is to achieve a record of sustained and stable earnings growth."

"In view of the progress RCA is making, our shareholders deserve a growing return on their investment."

RCA's earnings in 1976 climbed 61 per cent over the previous year to $177.4 million, while sales rose 11 per cent, surpassing $5 billion for the first time.

The company's shareholders have been receiving dividends for thirty-eight years without interruption. During that time, RCA has made eight extra cash payments ranging from 20 cents to 50 cents per share, has issued five stock dividends of 2 per cent and one of 10 per cent, and in 1964, split its Common Stock on a three-for-one basis.

The increased dividend voted at today's monthly Board meeting is payable May 2, 1977, to holders of Common Stock at the close of business March 14, 1977. RCA's 74.6 million outstanding shares of such stock are owned by about 273,000 shareholders.

The Board also declared dividends of 87½ cents per share on the $3.50 Cumulative First Preferred Stock and $1 per share on the $4 Cumulative Convertible First Preferred Stock, both for the period from April 1, 1977, to June 30, 1977, both payable July 1, 1977, to holders of record June 10, 1977.

The Pike County Dogwood Festival Arts and Crafts Committee is busy searching for craftsmen to demonstrate their skills at this year's festival which will be held on the streets of Piketon, Ohio, April 22, 23, and 24. Emphasis is on how pioneers plied their skills in the early days.

Some of the categories of crafts wanted are antique gun and gun making, pottery making, candle making, old tool demonstrating, weaving, spinning, bread making, log hewing, shoe making, rope making.

If you can demonstrate any of these skills or know someone who can and are willing to share your talents, please contact Polly Cooper, Festival Arts and Crafts Chairman, Dogwood Festival, Box 335, Piketon, Ohio 45661. With your help this will be an occasion which will benefit old and young alike and make us proud of our community.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland says he will use the U.S. Food for Peace program — also called Public Law 480 — as "a tool for development" in needy countries.

The Food for Peace law expires this year and Congress is currently working on modifications as part of general farm legislation development. It was first passed by Congress in 1954.

Bergland told a group of farmers and ranchers from Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska and other states last week that "we're going to pay more attention to what goes on overseas" and that an overhaul of Food for Peace will be a high priority.

"It started out as a surplus-dumping program and then it evolved into a military weapon in the war in Southeast Asia in supporting the so-called allies of ours in that disaster," Bergland said. "That's all gone, thankfully."

Under Food for Peace, needy countries can buy U.S. farm commodities and pay for them over as long as 40 years at low rates of interest.

Recipient governments then are allowed to sell the commodities to their own people and use the money generated to carry out broadly based development projects outlined in the U.S. agreement.

Bergland told the visiting farm delegation that "food production in the United States can probably be the most important contribution we can make to peace in the world" and that a prime goal will be to design better programs to "help those countries help themselves."

This is not a new idea at all since former Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz — and his predecessors — frequently spoke of U.S. food being a tool for peacemaking. Bergland, however, says it should be used more forcefully and effectively.

"We have to use American food aid as a developmental tool, kind of an on-the-job or sort of once-a-day school lunch, maybe, for building roads and hospitals and irrigation systems in those less-developed countries," Bergland said.

And there's a silver lining down the road for American farmers in all this, he said. For example, if India's per capita income is raised $10 a year "that's a $7 billion market" for farmers.

"Rather than give this food aid away willy nilly, we think we ought to use it more wisely to help them improve their own economy," Bergland said.

ACA Names Ag Chiefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Council of America (ACA) has named two co-chairmen of a new subgroup, a media council, formed to help extend the voice of farmers among urban consumers.

Lane Palmer, editor of Farm Journal magazine, and Royce Bodiford, farm director of KGNC radio, Amarillo, Tex., will head the new group, the ACA announced.

The ACA, which was formed in 1973, says it is a "nonpolitical and nonlegislative" organization aimed at improving communication between farmers and urban consumers.

ACA Chairman Dale Hendricks said the new media council will have three functions:

- "Secure active media support of current activities and programs.
- "Provide direction, recommendations and evaluation in program development and implementation.
- "Raise effectiveness in reaching farm media counterparts in the urban mass media."

IMPORTANT NOTICE REGARDING GAS SERVICE

Should it become necessary that gas service to the area in which you live or have property be interrupted due to an insufficient supply of flowing gas and the resulting loss of gas pressure it is essential that you take the following steps to expedite restoring gas service to your property when it becomes possible to do so:

1. Turn the shut off valve which is located in the piping on the left side of the face of the meter by turning it one quarter turn until the handle or nut is crosswise to the piping.
2. Turn the shut off valve located in the piping immediately ahead of each gas appliance by turning them one quarter turn and until the handle or nut is crosswise to the gas piping.

In the event it is necessary that the gas outage be for an extended period of time, during which the outside temperatures are below freezing, the following steps should be taken to prevent damage of piping and equipment from freezing:

1. Drain the water heater.
2. Drain the toilet tank and sponge the water out of the bottom of the toilet.
3. Remove and empty all water traps (Kitchen sink, lavatories, laundry tubs, etc.) Where drain traps are not accessible anti-freeze or enough salt to prevent freezing should be used.
4. Disconnect clothes washers and dishwashers and drain water supply hoses.
5. Drain and blow out water boilers in furnaces and all other water holding piping and equipment.

In addition to using fireplaces, if electricity is available, burning lights and operating electrical appliances can provide some heat inside the structure but care must be exercised to prevent fires.

As soon as the gas supply and pressures have recovered sufficiently to restore gas service, qualified personnel will be in your area to direct and perform the restoration of your service.

Mustangs Persist, Beat Bearcats 41-38

By TOM SPRING
Herald Sports Writer

The Westfall varsity girls cage squad won an exciting 41-38 contest over the visiting Bearcats of Paint Valley Saturday in a Scioto Valley Conference encounter.

Mustang Coach Linda Diltz breathed a sigh of relief and said, "I never want to go through another game like that again!"

The local girls had a 39-33 lead nearly slip away during the last three minutes.

With the Scarlet and Gray ahead by a single tally at 0:29, the Bearcats turned the ball over.

The Mustangs, still drew the Bearcat press out to try to get the ball back when Elaine Steinhauser calmly flipped the ball over to Paula Azbell who stood all alone under the basket. She hooped the big one at 0:08 to clinch the victory.

Westfall's Cathy Evans took scoring laurels with the Bearcat's Maria Puruis. The top-notch Mustang center hooped 16 points and also led her team in rebounding with 10.

Elaine Steinhauser sank seven points, and grabbed six rebounds, Michele Conley tallied six points and brought down two rebounds, and Paula Azbell netted four points and took five rebounds.

Anita Neff, Crystal Metzger, Teresa Graffis and Kathy Schleich scored two points apiece.

Neff and Graffis each snared five rebounds, Crystal Metzger copped four and Kathy Schleich pulled another down for the winners.

In addition to Maria Puruis' 16 points, Kristi Evilsizor scored nine for Paint Valley.

After a nip and tuck first period, the Mustang girls jumped out to an 18-10 lead in the second frame only to see the Bearcats comeback to narrow the score to two, 18-16, at the half.

Following the second half tip, Paint Valley's Kristi Evilsizor tied the score and Maria Puruis brought the visitors out front by two.

But Cathy Evans kept the Mustangs in the game with some key baskets.

Kathy Schleich tied the game again with her only basket of the night, and Michele Conley followed six seconds later with another bucket.

Puruis' free throws at 0:12 tied it once more.

Steinhauser hooped six, and Evans and Conley each added a bucket in the fourth setting the stage for the Bearcats ill-fated comeback attempt. Paula Azbell clinched what Coach Diltz called "the closest game in two years."

Mrs. Diltz said, "They just took a while to get things together. Persistence won the game."

The Mustangs are 5-7 and 3-3 in the SVC.

The girls begin sectional play Monday at Pickerington against a "good" Madison Plains team. Tipoff is scheduled at 7 p.m.

Tigers Stopped By Wilmington, 64-45

Circleville went with most of its bench Saturday night and despite an all out effort by these young men the Tigers dropped a 64-45 decision to Wilmington at the Mill St. gym.

"The bad weather forced us to reschedule this game which put us in a unique situation," Circleville coach Jim Bailey stated. "Our kids had played hard Friday night to win the Sectional and with the Mifflin game coming up Tuesday, I made a decision to go with the bench against Wilmington."

"Our kids played hard and never gave up and finally had a chance to play a whole ball game. We left Brent Wright in because we wanted him to pick up some experience against Gary Williams as he will be going against a 6-foot-7 center for Mifflin. He performed very well and outplayed Williams in the game. Dave Holbrook played a great game and was a real Tiger," Bailey commented.

Brent Wright led Circleville with 15 points, Eric Pontious added seven, Tim Milstead netted six, Dave Holbrook had five, Mark Albright hooped four while Rusty Holbrook, Frank Merrill, Tom Taylor and Mark Beck each had two.

Gary Williams and Steve Williams both had 15 to pace Wilmington, Tony Berlin and John Elliott both netted six, Jeff Marshall added five, Steve Hart hooped four and Jay Harte had two.

Circleville was 14 of 41 from the floor for 34 per cent and converted 17 of 28 from the charity stripe for 61 per cent.

Wilmington was 23 of 48 from the field for 48 per cent and hit 18 of 26 from the charity stripe for 69 per cent.

The Hurricane won the battle of the boards, 34-26, with Brent Wright leading Circleville and Gary Williams pacing Wilmington.

The Tigers had 18 turnovers in the game while the Hurricane misplayed the ball 13 times.

The first quarter saw the teams trading baskets with neither able to open a lead until Wright hit a basket and pair of foul shots and Pontious added a two pointer from underneath to give the Tigers a 16-11 lead at the buzzer.

It was another back and forth battle most of the way through the second period but three straight baskets by Wilmington in the last minute and a half gave Wilmington a 32-28 edge at Halftime and the Tigers were never able to break on top again.

With Steve Williams and Nared hitting the hoop in the third quarter, Wilmington began to open the gap and were out in front 45-36 at the buzzer.

A pair of fouls by Wright to open the final quarter cut the gap to 45-38 but once again Steve Williams and Gary Williams went to work and the Hurricane pulled away from the battling Tigers who refused to quit.

Circleville will now face state ranked Mifflin in District play 7 p.m. Tuesday at Ohio Wesleyan.

Gary Koch Wins Citrus Open Clash

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Gary Koch set out on the pro golf tour this year with a two goals in mind — one of an immediate nature, one more far-ranging.

"I wanted to win a tournament and make the top 60 (money-winners for the year)," the slender Koch said.

"More importantly, I wanted to continue to improve."

"I'm awful young, only 24. I figure if I can continue to improve every year, then by the time I'm 27 or 28 or 29, well, I ought to be just fine, be in fine shape."

He achieved that immediate goal — a tour victory and an almost-certain grasp on a spot in the top 60 money-winners — with his two-stroke triumph and the $40,000 first prize Sunday in the friendly, familiar confines of the 6,929-yard Rio Pinar Country Club course, a favorite playground for Koch since the age of nine.

And the victory, his second in as many years on the tour, put him firmly on the road to that long-range goal of continued improvement and placed him solidly among the seemingly endless ranks of the emerging young men who are turning the rich tour into their own, private plaything. Throw out Jack Nicklaus, and the average age of the winners this year is 25.7.

"I can't think of anyplace I'd rather win than here in central Florida," said Koch, a resident of nearby Temple Terrace, Fla., a product of the University of Florida whose legions of alumni followed Koch with almost constant cries of "Go, Gators, Go."

He won it with a gritty, lastround 70, two-under-par, and a 274 total over the hot, humid, heavily-wooded Rio Pinar course. That's where he played his first competitive tournament at the age of nine and the site of his victory, at 15, in the national peewee competition.

Larry Bilek Unanimous Pick On All-SVC Team

LARRY BILEK

Larry Bilek of the Westfall Mustangs heads up the list of unanimous choices on the Scioto Valley Conference all star basketball team for 1976-77.

The six foot-three inch center for Coach Mike Eckle was the only big man in the unanimous selections with four other selections being guards.

A two year letterman, the Mustang blue-chip performer averaged 15 points per game, along with 13 rebounds per contest. He also contributed three assists per game.

The Westfall co-captain connected on 74 per cent of his shots from the foul line this season, and enjoyed a 54 per cent accuracy rate from the field.

Jeff Mowery, a junior guard who came off the bench and spark-plugged the Mustang offense on several occasions, was tabbed honorable mention by the loop coaches.

Besides Bilek, the other unanimous selections on the 1976-77 all-SVC squad are Steve Dawes, Bishop Flaget, senior; Terry French, Zane Trace, senior; Coy Prater, Southeastern, senior; and Kevin Roll, Adena, junior.

The remainder of the all-SVC squad is as follows:

Larry Cutlip, Piketon, senior; Scott Bailey, Union, senior; Rex Hamilton, Paint Valley, senior; Rick Hill, Adena, senior; Jeff Kellough, Huntington, senior; Brett Mavis, Bishop Flaget, junior; and Jeff Schuler, Southeastern, junior.

The player of the year in the Scioto Valley Conference is Steve Dawes, and Larry Jordan of Southeastern was selected as the coach of the year.

CHS Reserves Rally Downs Wilmington

A fourth quarter rally by the Circleville reserves gave them a 46-43 win over Wilmington Saturday night at Mill St. gym.

The Tigers concluded South Central Ohio League play with a mark of 11-1 and the league championship. This is the third time in the last six years that coach Denny Stewart and his Tigers have captured the league crown.

Circleville trailed 12-6 at the end of the first period, were behind 26-18 at halftime, held the short end of a 36-29 mark at the third period buzzer but came roaring back in the final canto to pull the victory out of the fire.

The Tigers played without the services of top scoring Peter Harrison who had injured his knee in practice.

Donald Hill turned in a great offensive performance for the Tigers as he hit for 21 points, Brian Sealock added 12, Carey Dean and Richard Elsea each netted four, Richard Pfleeger and Tim Pontious both netted two while Tyler Callihan had one.

Jeff Hosler paced Wilmington with 12 points, Jeff Sizer added 11, Bill Regan netted 10, Bob Brecha tallied eight and Greg Fulton had two.

SUMMARY
CIRCLEVILLE — Callihan, 0-1-1; Dean, 1-2-4; Elsea, 2-0-4; Hill, 7-7-21; Pfleeger, 1-0-2; Pontious, 1-0-2; Sealock, 4-4-12; Totals, 16-14-46.

Buffalo Defeats Canadiens; Win 4-1

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

There may be as much shock in Montreal today as there was in Mudville when Mighty Casey struck out.

The Canadiens lost a hockey game Sunday night.

Don't rub your eyes or check for a typographical error. That score under Sunday's Games in your National Hockey League standings is, indeed, Buffalo 4, Montreal 1.

Irwin Enters Memorial

"I just hope this year's Memorial Tournament has another location for those darn stakes," cracked last year's runner-up Hale Irwin in confirming his entry for the May 19-22 event at Muirfield Village Golf Club near Columbus.

"When Roger Maltbie's ball hit that thin stake from 187 yards away and I caromed on to the right of the green 15 feet from the cup, I was flabbergasted. I never saw this happen before. Nor did Roger, who went on to win the next hole and the championship," he added.

And so were the thousand of galleryites just as dumbfounded as the yfollwed the Irwin-Maltbie battle over four playoff holes in what was regarded as one of the top thrillers of 1976. The two had finished in a deadlock after 72 holes with even par 288 and it looked as if it was all over for Maltbie on the third playoff hole until his ball hit the stake.

"It's not in my character to take such a defeat lightly and I'm not referring to Roger's stake shot, which could happen to anybody. I felt I lost the tournament on No. 15 in the final round when I tried to play it safe and wound up with a double bogey to lose my lead," Irwin said.

"Forgetting the loss, which I likely won't, I rate the Memorial Tournament as one of the finest events I have ever played. The golf course is superb, the crowd was extremely cooperative and everything I saw was first class which is the way Jack Nicklaus meant it to be," he added.

No. 3 in the final money winnings last year, the former defensive back from the University of Colorado is one of the first named players to enter along with U.S. Open Champion Jerry Pate and South Africa's Gary Player among the more prominent acquisitions. To date, 87 players have been invited, all of them in special qualifying categories.

Behind the scenes, preparations for the Memorial Tournament are proceeding on schedule according to Co-chairmen Pandel Savic and Bob Hoag. Hundreds of volunteers have offered their services again, which attests to community involvement and pride of sharing in last year's successful opening.

Phillips 4th In Pentathlon

Circleville's Dave Phillips placed fourth in the State Pentathlon Saturday at Dennison University.

Marshall Parks of Dayton was second with 3250, Bill Jones of Westerville South placed third with 3233 while Phillips had 3227 for fourth place.

The Pentathlon consists of: the 55-yard high hurdles; the 55-yard dash; high jump; shot put and 880-yard run.

Wolverines Dump Marquette, 69-68

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Michigan Wolverines started the 1976-77 basketball season as the nation's No. 1 team, and Coach Johnny Orr thinks they should start their "second season" the same way.

"There shouldn't be any question in anyone's mind now — we should be No. 1 going into the NCAA tournament," says Orr.

The Wolverines, ranked third last week, made some points for the top spot by beating Marquette 69-68 Sunday after the country's No. 1 and No. 2 teams were beaten Saturday.

Notre Dame, an habitual streak-breaker, defeated No. 1 San Francisco 93-82, ending the Dons' 29-game winning string. Second-ranked Kentucky was upset by No. 11 Tennessee 81-79 in a game that forced a tie between the Wildcats and Vols in the Southeastern Conference.

"Our team showed as much courage as you can have," said Orr after the Wolverines came back from an 11-point deficit. "We had a makeshift lineup. It was our third game in four days and we've been on the road four days."

The most noticeable absentee from the Michigan lineup was Rickey Green, the Wolverines' quick-footed guard who played just two minutes because of a hip injury. But he wasn't missed too much, after Steve Grote hit two game-winning free throws with 23 seconds left.

Hoosiers Edge OSU; Win 75-69

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Kent Benson didn't play one minute of basketball Saturday, but the roar of appreciation from the crowd after his name was announced made it seem as though he'd just scored 100 points.

Benson, Indiana University's 6-foot-11 All-American center, missed the last four games of his career with a back injury. But he was on the bench in a warmup suit for the Hoosiers' 75-69 victory over Ohio State that ended a disappointing season for both teams.

"In every degree Benson epitomizes the dedication and perseverance needed to climb the ladder of success," said Hoosier Coach Bobby Knight in an emotional post-game address. "He's a great example for anyone to look at. For young kids to follow, I can't think of a better example."

Benson was visibly moved by the cheers that greeted his appearance at the end of the game. The 16,000 fans at the Assembly Hall here gave him a standing ovation.

He is the second all-time leading Indiana scorer, and he was a key element in Indiana's drive to the NCAA championship in an undefeated season last year.

Indiana ended the 1976-77 season with a 9-9 conference and 14-13 overall record.

Benson's replacement in Saturday's contest, freshman Derek Holcomb, led all scorers with 23 points. He also grabbed 15 rebounds. Mike Woodson, the highest-scoring freshman in Big Ten history, added 15 points. Junior Wayne Radford had 17.

Jim Ellinghausen paced Ohio State with 16 and Kevin Ransey had 14. Ohio State finished the season with a 4-14 Big Ten record and a 9-18 season mark.

"I really don't have too much to say," OSU Coach Eldon Miller said. "Indiana came out and won, that's all."

Knight, who used mostly freshmen and sophomores this year, said, "This season leaves me with a feeling we have a lot of work to do between now and next October 15th, and from then until the first of December."

Bearcats Top Georgia Tech; Claim Title

MEMPHIS (AP) — Fourteenth-ranked Cincinnati, claiming its second straight Metropolitan Conference title, and No. 10 Louisville face some tough opposition Saturday in the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball tournament.

The Bearcats outmuscled Georgia Tech 74-61 Saturday night to win the Metro tournament and learned Sunday that they will face independent Marquette, a perennial power, in the opening round of the Midwest Regional at Omaha, Neb., Saturday.

Louisville, upset 56-55 Friday night in the Metro semifinals by Tech's Cinderella outfit, snared an at-large invitation to the NCAA but the selection committee did the Cardinals no favor.

Louisville must face college basketball's most dominant team — the UCLA Bruins — in a West Regional opener at Pocatello, Idaho.

"I feel we have as good a chance as anyone to win the national championship," Coach Gale Catlett of Cincinnati said after the victory in a rugged contest.

Meanwhile, Memphis State, another Metro member, is to face 12th-ranked Alabama on Thursday in the first round of the National Invitational Tournament. The game is to be played in Birmingham, Ala.

It wasn't a totally lost day for Marquette, however, since the Warriors were one of 14 at-large teams selected for the NCAA playoffs.

Along with Marquette, other independents named Sunday for at-large berths included: Notre Dame, Nevada-Las Vegas, North Carolina-Charlotte, Detroit and Providence.

The NCAA selection committee also picked five conference teams to attend the NCAA playoffs in the at-large category: Wake Forest of the Atlantic Coast Conference; Purdue of the Big 10; Louisville of the Metro-7 Conference and Arizona of the Western Athletic Conference.

In addition, the NCAA made room in its playoffs for both Tennessee and Kentucky. Both finish their regular season tonight — Tennessee against Vanderbilt and Kentucky against Georgia — and if they both win, as expected, then the Vols will represent the SEC in the Midwest Region while the Wildcats will join the NCAA playoffs in an at-large role in the East.

Syracuse, St. John's and Holy Cross won ECAC regional playoffs Saturday to gain automatic at-large tournament bids.

With the at-large berths and most of the conference championships settled, that left only the Mid-American Conference winner to be determined. Miami of Ohio and Central Michigan will decide that league title tonight.

Sixth-ranked North Carolina was among the latest conference champions to join the NCAA field. The Tar Heels won the Atlantic Coast Conference playoffs with a stirring 75-69 decision over Virginia Saturday night.

Other newly-crowned champions over the weekend included, Arkansas, Cincinnati, Princeton, Southern Illinois, Middle Tennessee, Duquesne, Utah, Idaho State, Hofstra and Long Beach State.

Seventh-ranked Arkansas won the Southwestern Conference playoffs with an 80-74 victory over Houston. Cincinnati, ranked 14th in the nation, whipped Georgia Tech 74-61 in the finals of the Metro-7 playoffs.

Princeton nailed down the Ivy League with a 61-39 rout of Yale. Southern Illinois captured the Missouri Valley Conference title with an 82-69 decision over West Texas State. Middle Tennessee took the Ohio Valley Conference championship by beating Austin Peay 77-65. Duquesne won the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League title with a 57-54 victory over Villanova.

Utah won the Western Athletic Conference as a combined result of its

Red Holzman Steps Down

NEW YORK (AP) — "It was the end of an era when Red Holzman said he won't be back next season," Willis Reed said softly. "Almost from the beginning until now, he has been basketball."

Holzman, who has been around the National Basketball Association every year since 1948, announced Saturday that he will step down at the close of this season after 10 years as coach of the New York Knicks.

Reed, the burly center who captained the Knicks' championship teams in 1970 and 1973, is the leading candidate to succeed Holzman. The Knicks say the field is still open, but they expect to name a new coach within the next two weeks.

The announcement that Holzman would move up to the front office next season came as little surprise to the Knicks, who split a home-and-home weekend series with Philadelphia.

The announcement was prompted by a published report that Holzman would step down immediately and veteran forward Bill Bradley would serve as interim coach. Bradley, the former Rhodes Scholar who will retire as a player at the end of this season, said he had no desire to coach.

67-54 victory over Brigham Young and Arizona State's 95-89 triumph over Arizona. Idaho State won the Big Sky title with a 61-55 triumph over Weber State. Hofstra won the East Coast Conference playoffs by beating La Salle 83-73.

Long Beach State won the Pacific Coast Athletic Association championship by beating San Jose State 76-63.

Five other teams were in possession of titles before Saturday — San Francisco in the West Coast Athletic Conference; Kansas State in the Big Eight; UCLA in the Pacific-8; Michigan in the Big 10 and VMI in the Southern Conference.

A total of 32 teams will start first-round NCAA play next week at eight sites and the eventual four regional winners will meet in Atlanta for the semifinals and finals March 26-28.

Notre Dame pulled off the biggest upset of the season with its victory over San Francisco. Notre Dame's Duck Williams scored 25 points and paced a second-half rally before an ear-splitting crowd of 11,500 at South Bend, Ind. The crowd was so vocal that the network televising the game gave the "Most Valuable Player" award to the Irish fans.

North Carolina erased an eight-point lead to beat giantkiller Virginia despite the absence of Phil Ford. Walter Davis and Mike O'Koren in the late going. Ford and O'Koren fouled out in the second half and Davis injured himself.

Ron Brewer's 19 second-half points led Arkansas over Houston. The Razorbacks completed their best Southwest Conference season with a 16-0 record. Bob Miller, Mike Jones and Gary Yoder combined for 58 points as Cincinnati won its second straight Metro-7 crown.

Frank Sowinski scored 24 points as Princeton beat Yale to capture its second straight Ivy League title. A 28-point performance by Gary Wilson led Southern Illinois past West Texas State.

Greg Joyner and Bob Martin each contributed 13 points in the second half to help Middle Tennessee defeat Austin Peay. Norm Nixon scored six points in a row late in the game to trigger Duquesne past Villanova in the first ECBL playoffs.

Jeff Jonas scored 18 points to carry Utah past Brigham Young. Steve Hayes and Greg Griffin scored 14 points apiece as Idaho State defeated Weber State. Rich Laurel poured in 33 points to help Hofstra defeat La Salle. Long Beach defeated San Jose State behind Richard Johnson's 21 points.

NEW TRUCK — Dick Riffle, a lieutenant of the Clearcreek Twp. Fire Department, displays the department's new combination tanker-pumper that was delivered Thursday night. Manufactured by the Sutphen Company of Columbus, the new piece of equipment features a 1977 International chassis, and has a 1,000 gallon tank with a capacity to pump 750 gallons per minute. Clearcreek Twp. Fire Chief Bill Martin announced that the department will host an open house in the near future, and also that the department is planning a two-bay addition to the fire house that will start soon. The new truck was funded by the Clearcreek Twp. fire levy.

ACCIDENT SCENE — This was the scene of a single vehicle accident on E. Main St. that occurred at approximately 7:58 p.m. Saturday evening. According to the report, Donald E. Eitel, Route 2, driver of the truck, was eastbound on E. Main St. when another car pulled from an alley into his path. In order to avoid a collision, Eitel applied his brakes and swerved the truck, but struck a utility pole. A passenger in the truck, Larry

E. Scott, 21, 213½ W. Ohio St., received slight injuries in the crash. Another passenger, Charles Wamsley, 18, 639 S. Washington St., was uninjured. Officers at the scene summoned the Circleville Fire Department to the scene to flush gasoline from the street. The collision also knocked down a power line of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company.

Laurelville F.D. Fights House Blaze

The Laurelville Fire Department responded to a 2:30 p.m. alarm Sunday to the home of Fred Shaya residence, 25801 Emerine Road, in Hocking County.

The Shaya family was visiting neighbors and returned home at approximately 2:15 p.m. to find smoke pouring out of their home.

Attempts to gain entry to the house were unsuccessful, due to the intense heat and smoke that drove the Shayas away. The report states that they had to drive nearly two miles to use the telephone of a neighbor to report the blaze.

Laurelville Fire Chief Sam Ebert said that on the arrival of the first fire units, the house was totally involved in flames and the roof was beginning to fall in.

Firefighters were concerned for a period of time that the flames would spread to nearby sage grass and surrounding woodlands, but they managed to contain the fire by drawing extra water from an above-ground swimming pool at the residence with portable pumps.

Fire Chief Ebert estimated the loss at approximately $35,000. The Shaya's plans are not definite at this time.

Eighteen firemen responded to the alarm with three pieces of equipment.

Farm Bureau Presidents To Visit Washington, D.C.

County Farm Bureau presidents from throughout Ohio will be in Washington, D.C., March 14-16 to talk with Ohio congressmen about upcoming agriculture legislation. The trip may include a visit with Vice President Walter Mondale. Ed Taylor,

New Holland, will represent Pickaway County.

The county presidents are expected to discuss with congressional leaders the need for a new farm program since the present program expires at the end of this year. A new program has been proposed by Georgia Senator Herman Talmadge and will be discussed by the presidents with their congressmen.

Eighty-two presidents will make the trip, and annual event sponsored by the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation (OFBF).

OFBF Executive Vice President C. William Swank says the farmers will have other legislation to discuss with the lawmakers including:

Examination of the proposed Ag-Land Trust by the Continental Illinois National Bank proposed to market $50 million in shares of prime agricultural land to tax-exempt pension and profit sharing funds. The shares would be marketed by Merrill Lynch, a brokerage house. An Internal Revenue Service ruling on the tax-exempt status of the fund is pending, however, profit-sharing and pension funds are granted tax-exempt status under present law. Ohio farmers oppose the use of tax-exempt profit sharing and pension funds for the purchase of agricultural land. This proposal would take prime land out of the hands of the family farmer and into the control of big business.

Discussion of grain inspection. The Senate Agriculture Subcommittee on Production, Marketing, and Stabilization of Prices held hearings early in February on "user fees" stemming from a provision that requires the Federal Grain Inspection Service to collect fees to recover its inspection, weighing and supervisory costs. The hearings also included the burdensome record-keeping requirements for elevator operators. Farm Bureau feels the record-keeping requirements should be as simple as possible and that Congress have authority to appropriate funds needed for the inspection service between now and when the new law will be totally operational in November, 1978.

The presidents will discuss these questions and others with Ohio congressmen at an 8 a.m. breakfast meeting Tuesday (3-15). A possible visit with Vice President Mondale is scheduled for later that afternoon.

In addition to meeting with their congressmen, the presidents will visit the U.S. Department of Agriculture and, hopefully, meet with Agricultural Secretary Bob Bergland.

4-H PHOTOGRAPHY

4-H Photography Is For Everyone

By LEANN EYERMAN

4-H Photography is for anyone who has a camera. No special talents are required for this project, just a steady hand. A simple camera is fine, it's not necessary to use an expensive model. Even if you've never used a camera before, the project isn't difficult. The first year manual tells in simple terms hints and procedures for taking good, meaningful pictures. A picture should not only be in focus and in good light, it should also have story-telling ability. A group of sequence pictures, known as photo stories, are used to show more complicated ideas. A photo story can be about a variety of things including a 4-H project or an outing or activity. It may consist of three or a dozen photographs, as many as are needed to show all of the steps involved. Photo stories are useful in giving demonstrations.

If a member chooses to go on to the second project, he or she will explore taking pictures of moving objects; taking flash pictures at night or in the dark to highlight the subject of the photograph and angled pictures. An angled picture is one taken from either a higher or lower level than the subject is on to make an ordinary photograph more interesting.

In advanced projects the learning photographer can study developing pictures, movie-making and more professional photography.

I personally chose the project Photography I because I had received a camera for Christmas that year and I wanted to learn more about using it. I was eventually one of the people chosen to represent our county at the State Fair in Photography. I learned a tremendous amount and saw many excellent photographs there.

I encourage anyone to take photography projects who likes to be imaginative and artistic. I feel that these qualities will help in picture taking. They're the difference between ordinary photos and eye-catching ones.

To anyone who chooses to try photography — "Good Luck and happy exploring!"

Three New Films

NEW YORK (AP) — Melvin Frank recently signed an agreement to make three motion pictures for 20th Century-Fox, including a remake of Alec Guinness' "Kind Hearts and Coronets," the film company announced. Frank, a writer, producer and director, intends to modernize and internationalize the story, using leading comedians of several countries.

The second picture, "The Team," will be a portrait of a team of Hollywood writers who eventually become directors and independent producers. Frank will co-author the script with Jack Rose, with whom he wrote "A Touch of Class." The third film will be "A Little Bag of Brown Sugar."

From 1892 until 1954 the Plymouth Rock for at least half of the immigrants to the United States was Ellis Island in New York harbor. There the new arrivals were screened to determine whether they were entitled to land. Those who were too sick, too old or too weak to support themselves were turned back. In 1911, some 13,000, about two per cent, of the year's arrivals were turned away, according to National Geographic.

Creative Arts Hobby Could Win Prizes

CREATIVE ARTS PROJECT

By JOAN GOODE

What do you do in your spare time? Whether it's carving soap, gluing toothpicks together, or just doodling, it's creative! And did you know that you could win prizes for making things you enjoy making? Well, you can, all through the 4-H Creative Arts program.

There are two Creative Arts divisions. The senior division for 14 years and over and the junior division for 14 years and under. Each division is divided into four categories this year: 1. Fine arts - the really creative stuff; 2. Home arts - using kits and patterns, such things as macrame, ceramics, string art or anything that members don't start completely from scratch; 3. Wood and metal arts - arts made from welding, wood carving, etc.; 4. Pioneer crafts - patchwork quilts, soap making, candle making, anything that reflects pioneer crafts and skills.

My project was a clay pot (designed with a fork), a positive-negative painting using India Ink. And last, but not least, with a bicycle batik.

Batik is really quite easy to make. All you need is a sheet, some wax, some dyes, a picture, and lots of patience! First you copy the picture onto the sheet and then you dye the sheet the lightest color. Wax over the part you want to stay that color, then dye the sheet your next to the lightest color. Continue on until your picture is completed. See — it's very easy!

You never have to worry about running out of ideas. The 4-H advisors are always full of new ideas for you to try!

So, become a conjurer! Turn everyday items into spectacular works of art — all through 4-H!

Dairy — Many Diversified Projects

DAIRY PROJECT

By BRIAN STEVENS
Although the dairy industry in Pickaway County has declined in this number of herds and cows and milk production has stayed fairly constant. This has occurred because of better nutrition, sanitation and disease control and better breed selection.

These are some of the things 4-H has taught the youth of our county interested in the dairy project.

The dairy project is probably the most diversified livestock project 4-H'ers can take. They can show dairy veal calves — produced for slaughter, dairy feeder calves — larger animals for slaughter, dairy heifers — calves and young adult animals which will go into production, and dairy cows.

This project is probably graded better on the way the member handles, shows and cares for the animal than any other project. They must display knowledge in the ring while the quality of the animal is also considered.

The dairy project also is a good one for youth interested in getting into dairy farming some day. They can build this herd and learn all the correct practices to get "all" their cows producing 20,000 pounds of milk a year.

Beef Projects Can Be Profitable

BEEF PROJECT

By CAROL WINTER
Beef projects can be profitable, enjoyable, and educational.

Not only do you raise a calf, but during the 4-H season you attend meetings with friends, have recreation and learn about your project. Community projects are also done by the clubs. Each beef project has a book to fill out to learn about the project and keep track of feed records and profit or loss.

There are many different beef projects that can be taken in 4-H. Beef Breeding you take either a heifer or a cow. The calf doesn't have to be expensive, it can come out of your father's herd or a neighbor. A beef breeding project can be started in fourth grade or age of ten. Another beef project, which cannot be taken until the age of 12, is a steer. The steer must be started by January 1. Either project must have proper barn stall, or other protection from weather and lots of love.

A lot of work and money is put into a beef project. Before the fair there is the feeding and the calf should be washed three or four times. Breaking the calf to lead, cleaning and bedding the stall. At the fair the same jobs are there, plus many more.

After the fair the beef breeding projects are taken back home to be bred to raise a calf for the next year's fair, to start your own herd or sold. The steers are sold at the fair to local businesses.

Some projects are top grade, others are not as good, some win, others don't but you still have the enjoyment and the education in raising the calves. You also learn to win, and how to lose. If you lose you've got more to look forward to for the following year.

Dog Obedience Training Offered

DOG OBEDIENCE

By KIM CRAIG

When I first got my puppy, I thought she would be worth nothing because she was a mutt. So I called her Worthless, but I loved her very much.

After that I read many dog stories and books. Then I read a book called Prince Tom. Prince Tom was a Cocker Spaniel. He would do anything for his master — play games, etc. He even learned to play leap frog!! I wondered if I could teach Worthless any tricks. My friend Nikki Kennedy belonged to a 4-H dog obedience club, and she wanted me to join the club with her. I went home and asked my mom if I could join and she said I could. The first 4-H meeting I was really scared because I only knew Nikki and she was in her second year so she worked in another group with her dog. By the end of the summer though, I had made some good friends in 4-H. I especially liked my leaders — Mrs. Six and Mr. Lane. It took a lot of practice at the meetings to get the dogs to behave, but it was fun.

If you would join 4-H Dog Obedience you would think at first that it was mean to yank on the dog's choker chain. But then you would realize that it doesn't hurt them, and that it really pays off because the dogs really learn a lot. The most important thing to always remember to do is to always praise your dog a lot for doing good.

I had so much fun in 4-H!! We went a lot of places — my favorite was when we went to King's Island! I'm going to join again this year.

International Foods Project Takes 4-Her To Ohio State Fair

INTERNATIONAL FOODS

By DENISE WHITEHEAD

This past year was my first year in 4-H. When I first joined I never dreamed that I would be doing an International Foods project placing first at the Pickaway County Fair, and then proceeding to the Ohio State Fair.

After looking over the choices of projects, I decided International Foods would be a simple and fun thing to do with my friends - Ellen Simpson, Melanie Bowers, and Andrea Downing. They agreed. Because of my mother's ethnic background, we chose Italian food and soon found our group very involved in an interesting and challenging endeavor.

Even though it was a group project, we all had to work individually. I spent many hours researching the country, the people, their customs and diet.

Each of us had to make a menu, showing a typical diet for a day. I prepared my menu listing the foods in Italian on one side and English on the other. I could then translate the foods at a glance. Since I was responsible for the main course, I chose Zucchini Parmesan, and listed that as the main course of the main meal.

Ellen prepared the salad and brought the drink, Andrea was responsible for the vegetable, and Melanie made the dessert.

My main concerns were whether or not the parmesan would turn out just right, transporting it to the judging area, keeping it warm once I got it there, etc., but all these worries seemed to fall into place on the day that the judging occurred.

Being chosen "First" out of all the other participants was a surprise. I really felt rewarded for all the time and effort put into this project. Ellen, Melanie, and Andrea all received "Outstanding" awards and I was happy and excited for them, knowing their efforts really contributed to the project as a whole. The climax of this experience was the fact that I was chosen to go to the Ohio State Fair.

International Foods can be done as a group or alone. Doing it as a group brought my friends and I closer together and made learning fun.

Furniture Refinishing Can Be Rewarding

FURNITURE REFINISHING PROJECT

By JO CAROL HAWKES

Are you tired of sticking to that old varnished chair or rocker? Need an additional chest of drawers or table, or perhaps a new look for your woodwork?

Why not try refinishing! Bring those chairs or tables down from the attic that you have long since retired, refinish them, the best is yet to come. Besides, they are not just getting older, they are getting better as well, with a little refinishing that is.

Refinishing furniture is not easy, it requires time, energy and the correct supplies if the job is to be done well. But, it can be fun and very rewarding for your family, friends and yourself. Imagine the pride when showing off the fine workmanship accomplished through your efforts. You might even consider refinishing something for a friend or relative.

4-H affords you the opportunity to learn how to properly refinish furniture and woodwork. The refinishing project is outlined in a few basic steps: selecting the piece to be refinished; learning advantages, problems and treatment of various materials used to refinish home wood surfaces; learning characteristics and qualities of wood for various finishes; keeping a record of work and following the steps outlined to make refinishing conclude with a satisfied worker.

As a whole, refinishing is a very worthwhile and interesting project. Not only are you increasing your family furnishings, but you are adding to your own knowledge as well.

Remember, while restoring the piece to its original beauty, you will also restore old memories and pleasures connected with the piece.

Good luck!

Longfellow's "spreading chestnut tree" wasn't a chestnut at all, says National Geographic. It was really a false or horse chestnut.

ELECTRICITY PROJECT

Learning About Electricity Is Fun

By MATTHEW MILLS

Learning about electricity in 4-H is fun. And it will be knowledge that I can use the rest of my life.

The first year you learn about series and parallel circuits and batteries. You can make bell and buzzer sets, a trouble light, and even an electric game.

The second year is to learn the hows and why of electricity. I learned about electric motors, electrical tools, electric heating, and lighting. You can make a heat lamp, motor fusebox, test lamp, or a study lamp.

Using electricity wisely is for the third year. We learned about magnetism, switches, electrical connectors, soldering, wiring, and drawing schematic diagrams. I built a triac variable control for my project.

I'm looking forward to the power and electronic projects the next few years. I know others have built battery chargers, electronic thermometers, and digital clocks. Others have wired farm buildings for their families.

Largest Livestock Enrollment Is In Swine Projects

SWINE PROJECT

By ERIC DICK

Swine projects make an ideal project for farm youth. It gives them a chance for a relatively small investment to make a profit, learn about animal industry, and to build a farm enterprise.

The swine breeding project gives the youth the opportunity to buy a gilt and start his or her own herd.

They can take the gilt one year, raise a litter of pigs, take the barrows as market projects and the best gilts as the next year's breeding project. If a member in the 3rd grade started out with one gilt by the time he was 19 he could have a potential of a herd of at least 50 sows.

He could help finance his operation through the market pig project and selling off his culls. Of course, he needs help and financial backing from home but the sky is the limit.

Oberlin Art Museum Adds New Wing

OVERLIN, Ohio (AP) — Oberlin College has added a new wing to its Allen Memorial Art Museum and art department. The new wing, which with renovations to the existing facility cost $3.3 million, increases by 50 per cent the amount of museum gallery space.

"After Harvard and Yale, there isn't a better college art museum in the United States than Oberlin's," says Dr. Sherman E. Lee, director of the prestigious Cleveland Art Museum.

The museum's collection includes more than 10,000 works of art as well as a costume collection, Oriental rugs and a rare group of some 1,400 American pressed glass goblets.

William Caxton was the first English printer. He learned the new art of printing in Cologne, returned to England and set up a press. He produced the first known printing in England, an "Indulgence," in 1476.

Bicycling Is Fun

BICYCLING

By LISA RAYMOND

Bicycling is a fun sport that boys and girls of all ages enjoy. It is a good form of exercise and a great way to see the countryside.

Four years ago Bicycle 4-H clubs were started in Ohio. Boys and Girls who are in the third grade or higher can join. It is a great way for them to spend their summer vacation time with their friends. Together they can learn the bicycle safety rules, bicycle laws, the different parts of a bicycle, how to take care of their bicycle, how to ride skillfully, and many other interesting things about bicycles. Their advisors take them on bicycle hikes to interesting places in the county. These hikes teach the boys and girls how to ride safely on different types of roads and traffic conditions. The club members have lots of fun doing things together as a group. The advisors also help the members get ready for the county fair and state fair.

The county fair is the highlight of the year for 4-H'ers. All the bicycle 4-H clubs compete in the Bicycle Rodeo at the fair. At the rodeo the members test their riding skills by riding their bicycles through an obstacle course. It's very exciting and everyone is full of suspense while they wait to see who the winners are. If a member wins first place in their age group, they are eligible to go to the State Fair. Every 4-H club member dreams of winning and being able to represent their county at the State Fair.

Bicycle Day at the Ohio State Fair is really something special. The Bicycle Rodeo starts very early in the morning and goes on until late in the afternoon. Nearly every county in Ohio is represented.

Each contestant is given a written test and is graded according to what their age is. Most of the boys and girls find the test easy because the questions on the test are about things they have learned at their club meetings.

The contestants go through an obstacle course similar to the one at the county fairs.

There is also a bicycle inspection where each bicycle is carefully checked by an expert to see if it is in working condition and that it meets the safety standards. If a bicycle is in perfect condition the contestant gets an Outstanding of the Day Award. This is an honor to receive because not many are given. These awards are announced and given out at the end of the day when the winners of the rodeo are announced. Win or lose, it is a thrill and a great learning experience to participate in the Bicycle Rodeo at the State Fair.

Bicycling can be fun and enjoyable when you do it with your friends. Joining a bicycle 4-H club is the way to do it.

4-H Is Great Learning Experience For Youth

By TAMMY ROSS

I have been in 4-H for six years and am a member of the Saltcreek Sew and Serve Club and the Saltcreek Livestock Club.

4-H has been a great learning experience for me and I am proud to say I am a member. It has helped me to learn to work and cooperate with other boys and girls and to make and meet many new friends. I have learned to accept defeat and also have known the joy of winning.

I would recommend joining a 4-H club to any boy or girl who is nine years of age or in the third grade of school. A 4-H representative should be coming around to your school very soon asking about new members. Think seriously about joining a club! You will find it very rewarding and you will have a lot of fun. There are many different types of clubs to choose from such as cooking, sewing, creative arts, electricity, conservation, bicycle, livestock, just to name a few. Surely, you would find one of these interesting to you.

The 4-H meetings usually start sometime in April. Our first meeting we organize and elect officers. The past two years I have been recreation leader and have enjoyed learning and teaching new games. Games and refreshments are served before the meetings. Plans are made for the coming year and we try to have something interesting for each meeting such as health and safety meetings where talks or films are shown. We also take a tour to someplace of interest and take part in a community project such as the Cancer Drive. One Sunday is set aside as Rural Life Sunday where all the 4-H members are to attend a church either of their choice or go as a group.

Each class has a 4-H advisor who you will meet at the first meeting and go over your project books in detail. Your advisor will be glad to help you with any problem you might have with your project. Each project is to be done in time for the Pickaway County Fair so that means 4-H is not all fun and games; there is a little work involved too.

The month of June is when we have 4-H camp at Tar Hollow. This is a time for fun and meeting other 4-H members. I have enjoyed going to camp and am sure you would too. The camp is very well organized and chaperoned. You don't need to worry about getting homesick; you will be having too much fun.

After returning from camp we really get down to business and work on our 4-H projects so they will be done in time for the fair. In the clothing projects we usually have pre-judging before the fair to see if there is any way we can improve our project. In the past few years Mrs. Wanda Butler has given us suggestions on how we should model our projects and to help us to get over the jitters.

Super Tankers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marine architects say it is now possible to build million-ton tankers to carry crude oil across the ocean, reports National Geographic.

At present the largest tankers are between 400,000 and 500,000 tons and most of the 4,500 tankers now in service are in the 80,000-ton range. But, Geographic notes, there are at least 575 tankers which are 160,000 tons or larger and the demand for crude oil has pushed up the size of the ships that carry it.

One oil company executive estimates that shipping costs between the Middle East and the United States are cut by 30 per cent when the crude is shipped in 250,000-ton rather than 75,000-ton tankers. Critics say that these big ships are ill-equipped to deal with the hazards of the sea, pointing to recent tanker disasters.

The 1937 Ohio River flood was far more costly than the big floods of 1884 and 1913, but the loss of life was much smaller. Rains which began Jan. 2 fell for a week to flood most of the streams in the state.—AP

Houseplants Make Year-Around Project

HOUSE PLANTS PROJECT

By NANCY PECK

During this past year of 4-H I took a new and different project; House plants. It was an interesting and educational experience. I learned how to care for the plants — the amount of water, the preparing of the soil, repotting and misting for each different kind of plant.

When you are finished with your project the plants could be used for home decoration. House plants can brighten up any room and add that extra touch to finish it off.

You really don't have to get fancy with your plants with a lot of expensive accessories. For planting you could use any container as long as it is big enough and if the container does not have drainage holes, just remember to put a layer of stones in the bottom of the container. You can acquire your house plants at any store that carries plants or get a "start" from a friend. Most of my house plants were given to me as "starts" by my friend Mrs. Mildred Davis.

When you take this project you assume the responsibility of taking care of the plants and the feeling that you can grow something. You also might end up with vibrant, healthy plants that you know you grew. Remember, you won't always have every plant doing great, but keep on trying anyway.

This project is not just for girls, it's for everyone interested in growing plants and such. I think that we should get more people interested in this project. The reason I took house plants was because I like to see little things grow into big and vibrant things and the satisfaction of knowing I did it all myself.

When the Pickaway County Fair arrives the older members and advisors are in charge of getting the project booth decorated and each member is to have their project displayed in the booth. Each group has a special day and time to be judged. We are all very nervous but the judges are really very nice. Following judging ribbons are handed out and there is a style show that evening where everyone models their outfit and the Outstanding of The Day and first and second place winners are announced. Everyone is a winner in their own right because you have made what you are modeling, and you have a right to be proud of what you have achieved.

This past year I was fortunate enough to win first place in Sportswear I and also was selected to represent Pickaway County at the Ohio State Fair with my outfit. I was very excited and nervous as I didn't know what to expect at the State Fair. There were about forty-two girls in my group and we all sat in a circle and sort of judged each other. Each of us modeled and told something about our outfit. There was an adult who was also judging us and it was all done on a points system combining the girls judging along with the adult judge. Much to my surprise I was picked as one of the five Outstanding of the Day in my group. I felt quite proud and honored to be able to represent Pickaway County as a 4-H member.

Remodeling Bedroom Becomes 4-H Project

A DECORATED ROOM

By BETSY DAY
I am very pleased that I took the project, "A Redecorated Room." It has been an exciting and interesting project. I have learned many valuable things by redecorating my room.

This project helped me to learn not to buy the very first things that I saw, but to be selective. I had to look at many different stores to compare quality and prices. I had to try to get the best for the amount of money that I had to pay for it.

Coordinating colors is a very valuable fact that I acquired. The main colors that I selected for my room were yellow and green. I chose these two colors because they blend well together. Since my bedroom is an attic room, the colors have made it brighter and more cheerful.

By helping my father put up the paneling, I was able to learn what is involved in getting it up straight. This part of the project took the most time and work.

I have really enjoyed taking this project. It has taught me so many invaluable things. Although it was much work, I thoroughly enjoyed remodeling my bedroom. In the end seeing the final product of my quite cheerful bedroom, it was all well worth the effort and time.

Conservation Is 4-H Project

By GENE LIST

Conservation. What's conservation? Conservation is a 4-H project offered in this county. Really it isn't just one project but about fifteen individual projects, under this heading.

The project teaches you and brings you closer to nature. The projects have to do with birds, trees, fish, animals, and water. You can get into almost any thing you want from trapping muskrats to finding the source of a stream.

What kind of fish is that, what kind of bird sleeps there, who makes those tracks, and what kind of tree produced that nut? These are only a few questions you'll get the answers to. You'll also learn to identify different insects and wild flowers in your field trips. You'll be surprised by the number of different trees, flowers, and fish found in Ohio!

While you're learning all this information you're having a great time! Like in our club, we go on weekend fishing trips, we take nature hikes through the forest, and we have boating meetings where everybody gets to row a boat or gets to paddle a canoe.

Then for our meetings we get speakers to come in and give demonstrations. Our club has seen how to plant a tree, bait a hook, how to pick out good lures and how to cast a fly rod.

There are also camps you can go to. One of them is Outdoor Adventure Camp. It is at Jackson, Ohio, in the hills. Here you take different courses, such as canoeing, cliff rappelling, water safety, and fishing. It's a lot of fun!

So if you like the outdoors or would like to learn more about it, join 4-H and take a conservation project.

Woodworking Is For Everyone

WOODWORKING PROJECT

By KYLE JONES

Woodworking is a fun 4-H project for boys and girls who live in town, on a half-acre in the country or on a farm. It's for anyone who wants to build things.

Members learn skills that will be useful all their lives. They learn to use and care for basic woodworking tools and make useful items for home, garage, or farm. It can be a fine hobby or possibly lead to a job later in life.

First year members can start with simple projects such as a bird house, bench hook, or spice shelf. Then they can try a tool box, book shelf, or other projects a bit more difficult.

Each year 4-H'ers learn more about cutting and fitting, fasteners, and finishings. They choose new learning experiences and may try a grandfather clock, a picnic table, or even a boat. Only their imagination is their limit.

Join a 4-H club today and start building.

Matterhorn Is A Popular Peak

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Matterhorn, the last of the big Alps to be climbed, once thought of as the "unattainable peak," now has as many as 150 climbers a day during the summer season, says National Geographic.

Although there is no super highway to the top, wire ropes are fastened at difficult points, huts provide food and shelter for climbers and the rock obstacles have been cleared away.

It is now so easy to climb the 14,690-foot mountain that Constant Cachin, tourism office director at Zermatt, says that with a little practice and conditioning any man or woman in good physical condition between the ages of 18 and 80 can climb the Matterhorn — if they are careful.

The mountain has been scaled by a climber who was blind and even by a stray cat which tagged along with a climbing party and made it all the way to the top.

The first man to reach the Matterhorn's summit was British explorer Edward Whymper, on July 14, 1865. In descending the mountain, his three companions and one of the guides fell to their deaths on the mountain's glacier.

CHAMPION HEREFORD IN 1944 — Elisabeth Stevenson showed the winning Hereford steer in the 1944 Junior Fair show which was then held in conjunction with Pumpkin Show. The steer was purchased by John W. Eshelman & Co. at 41 cents per pound.

HORSE PROJECT

Horses—A Good 4-H Project

By MIKE YAPLE

This being Pickaway County 4-H Week, I would like to encourage all youth of the area to take part.

I have been a member of 4-H for 6 years now and have enjoyed every year. I have always had an interest in horses, so when I became old enough I decided to take my horse as my 4-H project. By doing so I learned the proper way to care for him.

Last year a new program was offered for the non-horsemembers. This meant you could join a horse club without owning a horse. You can learn the basic fundamentals such as the parts of the horse, how to groom, feed, and care for him properly.

The 4-H program offers much more than the opportunity to learn about horses. There are clubs for bicycles, motorcycles, cooking, sewing, cattle, sheep, pigs, electricity, and even clubs for small animals such as rabbits, hamsters, dogs, chickens, ducks, etc.

If you have a hobby, pet or other interest and want to get involved, contact the County Extension Office. Once you become a member you will then be able to take part in the many summer activities such as 4-H camp, the county fair, and the achievement banquet which is held at the end of the season.

Phone Service

Back In Middletown

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Telephone service was restored to 45,000 customers in the Middletown area Saturday, about nine hours after it was interrupted by an electrical equipment failure in the Ohio Bell offices here.

Gene Glotfelter, an Ohio Bell spokesman in Dayton, said 15,000 customers lost total service and 30,000 more lost partial service beginning about 3 a.m.

They could call within their area but could not make or receive long distance calls, Glotfelter said.

Besides Middletown, communities affected included Franklin, Monroe, Trenton, Gratis and part of the Germantown area.

Cars can usually last ten years or 100,000 miles without major overhauls, says the Highway Users Federation, but not without proper maintenance.

Bing Crosby Still Hospitalized

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Bing Crosby got a shave from his wife, Kathryn, at Huntington Memorial Hospital, where he is being treated for bruises suffered in a 20-foot fall from a stage.

"He's still too uncomfortable to travel," said a spokesman for the hospital. "He'd rather not travel in that condition." The Crosbys live in Hillsborough, Calif., south of San Francisco.

The 72-year-old entertainer fell from the Ambassador Auditorium stage Thursday night at the close of a benefit performance celebrating his 50th year in show business.

CBS taped the three-hour show and will air 90 minutes of it as "Bing!" on March 20.

Bread Demand Is High

WASHINGTON (AP) — A comprehensive analysis of the 170 high-volume supermarket grocery items shows wrapped bread as the most-used edible item.

The study, conducted by Progressive Grocer, an industry trade publication, based its rankings on 30,000 interviews with adults, covering 900 product categories. Statistics show that 96.7 per cent of the respondents use bread. Other items in high demand include table salt, flour, mayonnaise and mayonnaise-type dressing, catsup, margarine and granulated sugar.

Ohio 4-H Program Provides Opportunities For Youth

The year 1976 was a banner one for the Ohio 4-H program, with more than 211,000 4-H members participating. This record 4-H membership surpassed all previous records in Ohio's 75-year 4-H history. Many factors contributed to this tremendous success. One of the special reasons for this success has been the special emphasis made by Extension faculty, 4-H Program Assistants and 4-H advisors throughout the state, to reach the unreached.

Included in Ohio's 211,000 4-H members, were more than 31,000 from cities, of more than 50,000 population. 109,000 4-H members came from villages, towns and cities under 50,000 population. The remaining 50,000 4-H members lived on farms throughout Ohio.

The rapid increase in the 4-H enrollment in urban, suburban and inner-city areas has been possible to a great extent because of additional 4-H project opportunities available to Ohio's young people. In 1976, more than 180 different 4-H project opportunities were offered. Included in this offering were projects in urban horticulture; small animal projects such as guinea pigs, hamsters, rabbits, pigeons and dogs; along with several new projects in the conservation area. Bicycles, saddle horses and many new offerings in the foods and clothing area have also contributed to this increased interest by youth previously not reached.

Additionally, through the Ohio 4-H program, more than 7,000 youth enrolled in one or more of 60 new and different 4-H experimental projects. These projects, approved by county Extension agents, were designed to try new approaches and new areas currently untried or tested through 4-

H. This approach provides the setting to determine what project offerings best meet Ohio's expanding 4-H membership. The feedback through this approach has been overwhelming.

The addition of 4-H Program Assistants more than a year ago has also been of tremendous help in reaching new audiences throughout the state. These 4-H Program Assistants, working closely with county Extension agents generally on a 20-hour week, have opened many doors for Ohio's young people. Many new 4-H volunteers have been recruited by 4-H Program Assistants, and a large number of new 4-H clubs have been organized. The employment of these 140 4-H Program Assistants was made possible through the support of county and federal funds.

As the 4-H program continues to improve and expand in the future, the key factor to the continued growth of the program will be the continued interest and dedication by more than 20,000 volunteer 4-H advisors. These volunteer leaders, giving leadership in 1976 to more than 8,800 different 4-H clubs, have made it possible for 4-H to reach so many young people.

Through the continued interest in young people by business leaders, elected officials, parents, and volunteers, the Ohio 4-H program will continue to strive to "Make the Best Better," the motto of 4-H for many years.

Burglar Proves He Has Heart

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — One of the robbers who held a family at bay while ransacking their suburban Detroit home this weekend had heart — he paused to feed a crying infant before leaving.

Three or four men wearing ski masks burst into the home Saturday, bound three family members with telephone cords, placed bedsheets over them and searched the house for some 40 minutes, Southfield police said.

When a 6-month-old boy woke up crying, one of the bandits asked the family where the baby's bottle was kept, warmed it, and fed the infant, said the family, which asked not to be identified.

Bingo Law Rapped By Service Group

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Council of Fraternal and Service Organizations, Inc., representing four state groups, approved a resolution Sunday terming the new state bingo law unfair.

At the closing session of its 22nd annual convention, the council said the law does not meet the needs of the member groups. The council named a committee to meet with legislators and propose recommendations aimed at making the law more equitable for fraternal organizations.

The council is composed of representatives of the Eagles, Elks, Hibernians and Moose.

'I Pledge'

4-H Clubs repeat these words at the beginning of every meeting.

I pledge
My head to clearer thinking,
My heart to greater loyalty,
My hands to larger service and
My health to better living
For my club, my community, my country and my world.

This 4-H pledge is used at the activities of 9,334 4-H clubs in Ohio. The pledge was officially adopted in 1927 by the 4-H members and leaders attending the first National 4-H Club Camp in Washington, D.C. Otis Hall, State 4-H leader from Kansas, wrote the pledge. When the Executive Committee of the Land-Grant College Association asked Dr. R. A. Pearson, President of Iowa State College and Dr. A. C. True of the Federal Extension Service to write a pledge for 4-H, they submitted the one written by Hall.

The 4-H pledge has been changed only once since 1927. At the request of several states and on the recommendation of 4-H members attending National 4-H Conference (formerly National 4-H Club Camp), the pledge was changed in 1973 to include "my world."

The 4-H members and leaders attending National 4-H Camp in 1927, also adopted the 4-H motto: "To Make the Best Better." The motto was proposed by Miss Carrie Harrison, a botanist in the Bureau of Plant Industry. Like the 4-H pledge, the motto has remained the same through the years. Both carry a great deal of meaning for the 5.6 million 4-H members in the United States.

SHEEP BREEDING

Sheep Breeding 4-H Style

By DAVE SCHIFF

Taking breeding sheep to the fair can be a life long and profitable experience. There are three classifications of breeding sheep at the fair: Ewe lambs which are less than one year of age, yearling ewes which are one year or less than two, and aged ewes two years and over.

The awards one might receive for their breeding sheep project is an A, B, or C ribbon. There is also the fun of making new friends at the fair.

Here are some ways to be successful with a breeding sheep project:

1. Have definite goals and objectives
2. Develop a program to fill a definite need in your area
3. Use sound feeding and management practices
4. Be interested and enthusiastic with your project
5. Finally, strive for achievement.

Your breeding sheep project can help you make money for furthering your education or any future interest. For further information contact your county 4-H agent.

Learning To Weld In 4-H

WELDING PROJECT

By JEFF JOHNSON

During the past two years of being in 4-H welding, I have been benefited greatly. Welding is almost a must around the farm in the repair of machinery and the making of different handy things for various applications around the farm or home.

The first year of welding I learned the different types of welders, welding equipment and the different uses of different rods. After learning safety practices, I started running beads. I experimented with different metals, different amperage, and different types of welders. For the fair that year I made example bead runs that were labeled a foot scraper and a shop doley.

During my second year of welding, I continued to learn about welding. I built a welding table which comes in very handy when I do weld. During the meetings we practiced running beads and then discussed what we did right and wrong.

One thing that welding requires is to keep in practice so you can make the best welds at anytime. We received that practice through the meetings. I then started to build things that were shown in my "Welding B" book for use at home and display at the fair. I made a jack stand and an adjustable stand that attaches to my welding table. These two items plus example bead runs are what I exhibited at this year's fair.

So, in conclusion, these past two years have proved to be quite helpful to me and the knowledge I have acquired I will use the rest of my life. And it couldn't have happened without dedicated advisors and everyone else involved in 4-H.

Building Model Airplanes

MODEL AIRPLANES PROJECT

I first became interested in model airplanes when I was nine. My first plane model, actually my first model, was a Mig-19. Back then I didn't really care, or even know, if it wasn't American. Then, that very night, the movie "D-Day" was on and the craze began. Ever since then I've been building models. I still have the Mig but it's in sad shape. Many other models that I've built after that had to be thrown away because they had been somehow demolished.

I do a lot of reading on airplanes and World War II. Also I participate in strategic and complicated war games such as "Blitzkrieg" and "Kriegspiel." My favorite book is "B-17 Flying Fortress." What amazed me was in the back it practically told how to fly the thing. How to taxi, land, control your trim tabs and ailerons, etc.

Now and then I build a ship such as the Bismark or the KGV. I've got a lot of favorite planes and models. This last year I won second overall with an SBD Dauntless dive bomber. I also like the Kawasaki Hien "Tony" a Japanese fighter. My first dicrama is of a B-17 Flying Fortress they careened off a runway with a lot of damage. I had difficulty with the grass, using cut up hemp rope. In my opinion it turned out to be one of my better projects.

Building models gives you a good feeling when you are done and see your very own constructed model. I think it's rewarding as you are always learning. If you are patient and don't mind tedious work, you should take up building models. I think you would enjoy it.

The 4-H Emblem

The 4-H Clover emblem is a symbol of growth for 5.6 million members and more than 36 million 4-H alumni in the U.S.A. The emblem has become a familiar symbol to Americans over the past 75 years. Last year the Gallup Poll showed that 77 per cent of those interviewed were aware of 4-H.

During the early 1900's, what is now 4-H was given various names — boys' and girls' clubs, agricultural clubs, home economics clubs, corn clubs, tomato clubs, cotton clubs, canning clubs, etc.

The first emblem design used for boys' and girls' clubs was a three-leaf clover, introduced in 1907 by O. H. Benson of Iowa. The emblem was being used at that time on placards, posters, badges, canning labels, etc. In 1909, this emblem was used on pins and the three H's stood for Head, Heart and Hands.

Around 1908, Benson and others began using a four-leaf clover design. Benson said that the H's should stand for "head, heart, hands, and hustle . . . head trained to think, plan and reason; heart trained to be true, kind and sympathetic; hands trained to be useful, helpful and skillful and the hustle to render ready service, to develop health and vitality . . ."

At a meeting in Washington, D.C. in 1911, club leaders adopted the present 4-H design, a green four-leaf clover with a white H on each leaf. O. B. Martin, South Carolina, suggested that the 4-H's stand for Head, Heart, Hands and Health to represent the equal training of the head, heart, hands and health of every child.

The term 4-H was first used in a federal publication written in 1918 by Gertrude Warren. In the early 1920's a group at a conference in Washington, D.C. discussed the need to give the boys' and girls' club work a distinctive name that could be used nationally. Several people including Miss Warren favored 4-H as the name for the organization. In 1924, boys' and girls' club work became known as 4-H.

Also, in 1924, the 4-H clover emblem was patented. At the end of the four-teen year patent term in 1939, Congress passed a law to protect the use of the 4-H name and emblem. The law was slightly revised in 1948.

The 4-H emblem is still protected by Congress from commercial or unauthorized use. The four-leaf clover circles the globe and represents 4-H and similar youth organizations in more than 80 countries. More than 218, 465 boys and girls in Ohio wear the 4-H emblem.

Useful Items Can Be Made From Discards

Items you usually discard from your home may be used to make useful items. For example, you can make a chair from old tires. You can make a table with pop cans. These items provide you with inexpensive furniture while keeping the environment clean.

These are two of the activities in the Ohio's 4-H Housing and Furnishings projects. In one project, "Learn About Home Furnishings," 4-H'ers make items from things that are usually termed "junk." They learn better ways to organize their drawers and closets. For example, one member learned he could store five shirts in the space it usually takes to store one.

In "Refinished Furniture and Woodwork" the 4-H'er actually refinishes a piece of furniture or woodwork. Once this is done, the member learns to care properly for this finish and other finishes found in his or her home.

In a third project in housing and furnishings, "Improve Your Home With A Redecorated Room," members learn to redo a room. The 4-H'ers are given the amount of space needed for certain daily activities in the home. Floor plans are included in the project book so the member may experiment with different furniture arrangements.

Other projects that include items to be made for the home are: "Adventures In Woodworking," "Learning and Building," "Building Bigger Things," "The Craftsman," and "Wood and Wood Finishes." The 4-H member may choose to work on a "Self-Determined" project, in which he sets his own goals, which may include things for the home.

Four-H clubs are forming all over Ohio! The Cooperative Extension Service can provide you with information about clubs in your community. To contact your local Cooperative Extension Service, phone 474-7534, or drop in at 137 W. Franklin St., in Circleville.

Junior Volunteer Club Formed

There is a new 4-H club in Pickaway County called the Pickaway County Junior Volunteer 4-H Club.

This is a county-wide club designed for Junior High 4-H members. This club will give youth an opportunity to meet 4-H members across the county, improve 4-H skills and make their local club stronger. In addition, there will be interesting speakers, new and different tours and community service projects.

The only requirement for membership is that members must carry a project in another club, and be 12 or 13 by January 1.

If you are interested in joining come to our next meeting, March 16 at 8:00 p.m. at the 4-H and Grange Building. Mr. Darwin Whitehead will present slides on Libia, Africa and Alaska. For further information, call or write the Extension Office, 137 West Franklin Street, Phone 474-7534.

Safety Emphasized In Horse Project

Make safety practices a part of your 4-H horse program is the recommendation to girls and boys enrolled in this popular Ohio project.

Disregard of simple safety rules in handling horses can cause serious mishaps to both animal and 4-H'er.

For any person involved in working with horses or even spectators at a horse show, these hints can prevent injuries.

Always speak to a horse when you walk up behind him.

To pet a horse, first place your hand on his shoulder and neck. Don't dab at the end of his nose.

Always walk around your horse, out of kicking range. Never walk under or step over the tie rope.

Stay close to the horse while working with him. Always let the horse know what you are going to do. Work about a horse from a position as near the shoulder as possible. In this way, the horse cannot touch you with either his front or hind feet. When you lead the horse and he resists and hangs back on the end of the rope, turn him to one side and lead him a few steps before touching him with your hand.

Never tease your horse. He may develop bad and dangerous habits for the rest of his life and seriously jeopardize your safety.

Tree Seedlings Again Available

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohioans may purchase tree seedlings from the Department of Natural Resources' Forestry Division for reforestation and windbreak purposes.

The seedlings may not be used for any ornamental purpose, according to division chief Ernest J. Gebhart.

He said the best time to plant seedlings is in March and April.

Ohio's three state tree nurseries at Zanesville, Marietta and Green Springs, grow 23 species of trees.

4-H Members Involved In Community Projects

Four-H members and clubs are very interested in their local communities. They have participated in many programs this past year concerning community development, reports Steve Bartels, County Extension Agent, 4-H.

Bartels indicates that 4-H members study and do community service work through 4-H community resource development activities. The 4-H community resource development activities are divided into five major categories; namely: (1) community service beautification or community improvement; (2) study of local government and *cooperation with service organizations; (3) environmental quality and environmental education; (4) study of job and career opportunities; and (5) bicentennial programs, projects and activities.

Some of the activities and programs completed by 4-H members under community service, beautification and community improvement included bicycle safety education programs, bicycle inspection and registration programs, coffee breaks on holidays, roadside trash pickups, baby sitting training clinics, assisting with Heart Fund, Career Drive and other charity collections, programs for senior citizens, community fix-up and paint-out programs, 4-H programs for mentally and physically handicapped, and the development of a community park, just to name a few.

Under the study of local government and cooperation with service organizations, 4-H members formed young voter committees and developed a county service directory, visited law enforcement offices, fire departments and city and county government offices to see how they operated. A big program this past year was Jr. Leaders participating in a program with News Election Service to help report presidential and congressional races across the state this past election day. Tom Collins, Manager of the Ohio News Election Service reported that he had never before had the opportunity to work with a more competent, dedicated group than the 4-H people in Ohio.

In the area of environmental quality and education, local 4-H members have planted trees, cleaned up

Tree House Set For Amy Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the President's daughter, Amy, has visitors at the White House, she'll have a place to entertain them.

President Carter told those at the dedication of Children's Hospital National Medical Center Sunday that he and Amy have designed a tree house for the front yard of the White House.

"We'll let you see it when it's finished," Carter promised reporters. Amy is 9.

waterways, vacant lots and roadways, participated in special environmental projects and impact studies in special camp programs.

4-H members were very much involved at all levels of bicentennial programs, projects and activities this past year. In addition, 4-H members are busy now making plans to celebrate the 75th anniversary of 4-H in Ohio during 1977.

Yes — 4-H members are highly involved in making their communities a better place to live and learning more about the functions of community government. You too can become involved by joining the 4-H program as a member or adult advisor. For further information you should contact your County Extension Office.

The Mexican volcano Paricutin is the first in history to be observed from the moment of its birth. It began erupting in the middle of a cornfield about 200 miles west of Mexico City in February 1943. Within six months it had built a cone 1,000 feet high.

Your Views On Horoscope Television

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

FOR TUESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Make the most of your really bright ideas and concise, solid plans for achievement now. Accentuate positive thinking. Combine intuition with know-how.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Some complexities indicated. However, your ability to move in tight spots and maintain equilibrium through heavy seas can see you through.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): You may not have the incentive to try to accomplish the extraordinary now, but a bit of extra thought given to the future could completely change your perspective - and stimulate your ambitions anew.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): After some early morning confusion, day should turn out to be surprisingly productive. You also stand to gain financially.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Solar influences suggest a need for added vigor in your thrust forward, but be careful not to alienate associates. Tendencies toward overaggressiveness prevail.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): You may be quite certain in your mind as to exactly how you intend to handle things, but it wouldn't hurt to get another's viewpoint. Some interesting new concepts could result.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Better than usual advantages, but more than usual effort asked, too. Some past investment of money or time begins to pay; invest more for the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): You may think you have something under control, rolling briskly. Better take another look for hidden flaws, anything that could mean time, energy lost.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): An original twist or a new method could brighten routine, but don't go to extremes and attempt the bizarre.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): You may possibly have to set aside certain personal desires in order to show your abilities in the best light. The effort you make in this regard will pay off, however.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Present everything in your thorough, affable manner; thus you will win points and outwit the competition. Do your best but don't undertake the unreasonable.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Both regular work and new ventures favored. Returns from past efforts indicated very soon. Whatever you do well will have long-range value.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a fine mind, great versatility and lofty ambitions. In the latter connection, however, you must be careful of the goals on which you set your heart. There's quite a bit of the dreamer in you and you often want to express yourself along lines for which you are not truly qualified. Failure then brings you bitterness and disappointment from which you may not completely recover. It is important that you be realistic and train yourself along lines in which you are really talented. Then you cannot fail. Fields in which you could make your greatest success: literature, the law, philosophy, agriculture, jurist.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When I was a tough young reporter on the Lakeland Ledger in Florida, hard-boiled city editor Bill Whitehead gave me a package and said: "Cookies from your mother. Why are they ticking?"

That was authentic newshawk dialogue. But it pales compared to what I've heard on CBS' "The Andros Targets," the series about Mike Andros, hard-hitting young investigative reporter in New York.

Tonight, for example, he'll yell at a potential Fink: "You gave me nothing I can print, nothing!" This is authentic newshawk dialogue, as any hard-hitting young investigative reporter can tell you.

If you saw the premiere, you'll know Mike was handed a file of incriminating documents and murmured: "Whoa, this is powerful stuff." Later, he said, "I don't buy information, Alice."

This, too, is real newshawk talk, the McCoy. I've been keeping up with it the past two weeks, so as to try it out at parties. I offer some samples in case you want to try it out at parties.

On Feb. 21, Mike was after a Park Avenue doctor who gave uppers, downers, all manner of illegal potions, to beautiful people patients. Mike's trail led initially to a Harlem dope dealer, Snowman.

A narcotics agent with Mike at the time said later he can arrest such lowlives, "but who nails the untouchables on Park Avenue?"

"Maybe that's my job," Mike said. He said it softly.

Later, when asked if he misrepresented himself on the story, Mike told his editor: "Look, I do a dance on the edge of truth every day to get the truth."

Still later, when he came to his editor with something of which he was sure, the editor said: "Don't tell me about it. I love it."

While proving it, Mike told a drug addict, a potential informant: "I'm not a cop. I'm not a detective. I just want to know the truth."

A week later, Mike tried to find out who put the snatch on an honest union boss whose men were working on an urban renewal project in Harlem. Mike said this to an informant:

"You got something on paper? Names? Dates? Pictures?"

Mike's editor, worried about the credibility of Mike's informant, warned: "The FBI may come down on you hard to name him."

"Let 'em," Mike said. He said it defiantly. Also softly.

Mike later told an FBI agent: "I want to be with you when you make the bust."

After the bust, Sandi, a cub reporter who works with Mike in blowing the lid off the big town, saw him brooding at his desk.

"What's bugging you?" she asked. "You got an exclusive?"

Okay, now take this dialogue, get someone to play the editor, Sandi the cub, the narcotics agent and the informant. You play Mike Andros. Repeat all this dialogue at the next party.

Anyone laughs, you shout: "You gave me nothing I can print, nothing!" Get your pad, pencil and trenchcoat and quietly leave the party. Then phone in the story. To the society editor.

Motorcycle Is Educational Project

By DALE LIST

A motorcycle as a 4-H project is an enjoyable and an educational project.

In the project you learn safety rules and how to take care of your bike. One big thing is always wear a helmet when riding, for safety sake.

At the meetings you learn the different parts of the motorcycle and how to fix them, in case something goes wrong.

As a club you go on trail rides and sometimes you get to race each other.

Do you know how a motorcycle works or the difference between a two and four cycle engine? Can you change the oil or tighten your brakes? These are a few of the things you will learn in the project, along with any questions you need answered about your bike.

The project highlight is at the fair. Here everybody in motorcycle 4-H brings their bikes to the fair. There is every kind of bike around, small ones, big ones, old ones, new ones and fast ones. But to find the best rider and motorcycle you and your bike have to do two things. First, there is the inspection of the bikes. Here they check for cleanliness and what kind of shape the bike is in. Second, which is the most important is the obstacle course. Here you have to ride your bike through a series of markers and then you have to stop on a line. Whoever misses the least amount of markers and stays inside all outside lines and comes the closest to the line wins.

Even if you don't win you can remember all the fun you had on your motorcycle that year in the club with fellow club members.

SMALL ANIMALS PROJECT

Small Animal Projects Are Interesting Experiences

By KRIS RAHE

Small animal 4-H clubs can offer a variety of experiences. Belonging to Little Kritter Keepers has taught me not only how to care for my mouse Jessie, but also about the care and habits of a great variety of small animals (rabbits, goats, cats, hamsters, dogs, gerbils, etc.) through reports the members give on their pets. Guest speakers make the meeting interesting and informative.

Mr. Archer presented a program on Ecology telling about Ohio's efforts in preserving our natural resources; Dr. Rudy presented a program on cats and rabbits — what to feed them, how to care for them, and certain diseases. A fieldtrip-nature hike around Hargus Lake showed us a variety of plants and wild life.

Meetings were held in members' homes. Several of them were held on the farm of our advisor, Mrs. Pontius, where among other things we learned to churn butter, make ice cream, put together and use a milk separator, feed goats and cows. Programs on Health and Safety, games and refreshments rounded off the meetings. County Fair is sort of like the frosting on a cake for all 4-H'ers. You find out that building the booth is hard work and requires a lot of cardboard, tacks and patience. You learn that in order to get credit you have to complete your project, take it to the fair and be judged. After the fair you have time to sit back and think — was it worth it? Would I join again? and the answer leaps at you without hesitation, of course!

No Fear Of Flying

WASHINGTON (AP) — Airline passenger traffic will double by 1988 according to a recent report by the Federal Aviation Administration.

The number of domestic passengers is expected to reach 393.2 million persons, up from 195.1 million in 1976. International passengers will jump from 16.7 million to 35.3 million.

1951 GRAND CHAMPION — Myrtle Brown Foster showed the grand champion steer at the 1951 Pickaway County Fair. Wayne Brown Sr. is holding the trophy.

WORK AND PLAY TOGETHER

Pickaway County 4-H Clubs offer you a choice. From approximately 175 different projects, 4-H gives you an opportunity to learn and to make many new acquaintances.

ENERGY CRISIS

WE ARE DOING OUR BEST TO CONSERVE ENERGY. FIVE OF OUR STORES ARE CONVERTED TO OIL HEAT. FOURTEEN OF OUR STORES ARE ALL ELECTRIC AND USE NO GAS. MANY OF THE REMAINING STORES USE HEAT RECLAIMED FROM THE LIGHTS AND COMPRESSORS AND THEREFORE USE SMALL AMOUNTS OF GAS. WE HAVE LOWERED THE TEMPERATURE IN ALL STORES. THANK YOU FOR YOUR COOPERATION.
